Korean Repatriation Group Postpones Coaxing of POWs

PANMUNJOM #—The Korean Repatriation Commission, apparently wrangling over rules, today postponed until as late as next Thursday the start of Allied and Red efforts to coax home prisoners refusing repatriation.

No specific new date was set for the start of prisoner interviews, a phase of the truce which an Allied spokesman called "the psychological battle of our time."

The U. N. Command agreed to postponing the start of interviews, scheduled to begin Friday or Saturday.

It was not clear whether the neutral commission agreed to an Allied demand that the delay be deducted from the 90-day interview period, which the U. N. Command said must be counted from the time all unrepatriated prisoners are in neutral custody.

But a commission spokesman's statement that "it is understood" the 90 days will begin on the actual starting date of interviews would indicate that the Allied position may have been rejected.

During the 90-day interview period, 22,600 former prisoners of the U. N. and 359 prisoners captured by the Reds—including 23 Americans—are to be questioned by their original side.

The five-nation neutral commission, composed of India, Sweden, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia and Poland, said the delay was necessary because "arrangements and facilities" for the interviews had not been completed.

The commission reportedly has been trying to reconcile widely different recommendations submitted by the Allies and Reds on rules to govern the operation. There are three main points of conflict between the Allied and Communist views:

1. The Communists insist on interviews with individual prisoners; the Allies demand groups of 25.

2. The U. N. Command wants the prisoner to have the right to refuse to listen to the explanations; the Communists demand that all prisoners listen.

The Allies object to individual interviews in the belief that a prisoner appearing before Red explainers might be intimidated by threat of reprisal and other means.

The U. N. holds that chances for coercion would be at a minimum in a crowd. Moreover, the U. N. view is based on the belief that the groups of 25 who have been together while in captivity are under the orders of their leaders and would resist repatriation to communism.

The U. N. Command says a prisoner should be allowed to refuse to go to the explanations on the ground that he already has made his choice and that any reversal must be done by "an overt" act on his part—that is, by applying to the repatriation commission for repatriation.

The U. N. Command has called on the repatriation commission to guarantee that no force, threat or affront to personal dignity be permitted and only Thursday the repatriation commission gave prisoners such assurances.

The temper of the nearly 8,000 North Korean and 14,600 Chinese anti-Red prisoners is such that some will resent efforts by the Communists to win them back and lure by the U. N. in Korea are among the 22,600 Red soldiers refusing repatriation.

"In the event these (anti-Communist) prisoners remain loyal to the cause of the free world during the period of explanations by the Communists, we feel that we will have won the psychological battle of our time."

"We hope and pray, that this is the last battle of the Korean conflict."

Hamblen has named the explanation period "Operation Freepatriate."

The 23 Americans, 1 Briton and 335 South Koreans listed by the Reds as refusing repatriation arrived at the demilitarized zone Friday, singing the "Internation" may even resist appearing for the explanations.

Brig. Gen. A. E. Hamblen head of the Allied team of explainers, pointed out that three-fourths of the Chinese "volunteers" capable, anthem of worldwide communism.

Announcement of their names by Red China's Peiping radio brought reactions of almost unanimous belief from their families across the United States. Many felt the men had been pressured into refusing to go home.

Will Check Why American POWs Assisted Reds

WASHINGTON #—The Defense Department says it will investigate the circumstances under which some former American war prisoners in Korea reportedly made false confessions or turned information to curry favor with Red captors.

The department, Secretary Wilson announced last night, "is using every effort to investigate and establish what happened to these men while they were prisoners, the punishments and sufferings they endured, what false confessions some of them may have made under duress and the effect of the actions of some of them on their fellow prisoners."

Commenting that only a few American prisoners were swayed by Communist pressure and abuse while the vast majority resisted, Wilson said:

"We do not as a general principle condone those who made false confessions contrary to the interests of their country, or whose actions caused their fellow prisoners added misery. Such cases will be carefully and sympathetically examined by the services concerned to ascertain whether in any of them there has been an unreasonable failure to measure up to the standard of individual conduct which is expected even of a prisoner of war or deviations from standards of behavior prescribed by law."

Except to say the inquiries would be made on an individual basis, would be just and fair and "in line with established facts and evidence and the rules, regulations and laws" relating to military conduct, Wilson did not specify how the investigation will be handled.

His statement left open the question of whether former prisoners, released from service after their return to the United States, might be invited to answer questions of the military.

He also told Vishinsky that "The French government wishes to affirm here that it will pursue its relentless efforts to solve by negotiation all the problems that now beset Europe."

Schumann spoke as pleas for a high level meeting between Russia and the West mounted in the Assembly.

France To Talk Of Peace

Offer to Negotiate With Communists To Settle Warfare Raging In Indochina

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. #—France today offered to negotiate with the Communists for peace in embattled Indochina and suggested that the projected Korean political conference be broadened to take on the task.

Deputy Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann also told the U. N.'s 60-nation General Assembly that France would do all in its power to have the conference invite India to join in its work.

Schumann said that if the Korean conference didn't get around to the Indochinese problem, it might be taken up on a diplomatic level afterwards.

Such a negotiated peace between French Union forces in Indochina and the Communist-backed rebels "would make it possible to look forward to the return of more normal conditions of international relations in Asia," he said.

The French diplomat said he had heard "unofficial declarations" from the "two powers which inspire and arm the Vietnamese rebels" that they were disposed to negotiate an end to the war.

This was a clear reference to the Soviet Union and Communist China.

He then declared that "it remains for them to prove that these ambiguous hints are not mere propaganda" and suggested that the peace talks begin during or immediately after the Korean conference.

As for the Korean aspects of the conference, Schumann said France felt that India—which failed in a British and Russian backed bid for a conference invitation—could give "useful advice."

He backed a proposal made by Chief of S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Tuesday, that the conference itself could invite India, which the assembly failed to do.

Schumann declared France would do all it could to bring this about. He declared that the main Korean problem was to unify that torn country but said only time would tell the passions and hatred that have split it.

Schumann, making France's major foreign policy declaration of 1953 at the Assembly, defined his country's goals as "to unite Europe and seek a lasting understanding among the great powers."

He told Chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Z. Vishinsky directly that a united European Defense Community—which, in the natural course of events, would mean a European defense army—presented no threat to Russia but would rather guarantee her security.

Diplomats were somewhat surprised at Schumann's strong defense of a united Europe since it had been their impression that France was holding back from the project because of internal political dissension.

He also told Vishinsky that "The French government wishes to affirm here that it will pursue its relentless efforts to solve by negotiation all the problems that now beset Europe."

Former UN Worker Won't Tell Red Tie

Woman Refuses To Say If She Trained In Moscow

NEW YORK #—A former United Nations employee refused to tell the Senate internal security subcommittee today whether she received Communist training in Moscow from 1934 to 1937.

Mrs. Julia Older Bazer, 48, former $9,140 a year documents control officer at the U. N., cited the Fifth Amendment, covering possible self-incrimination, in refusing to say whether she spent three years in Moscow and roomed there with Anna Louise Strong, a writer.

The subcommittee is investigating a U. N. administrative tribunal decision ordering reinstatement or indemnity payment to 11 American U. N. employees dismissed for failing to answer subcommittee queries on past or present red links.

"Did you study at the Anglo-American Institute at Moscow from 1934 to 1937?" Robert Morris, subcommittee counsel, asked her.

She refused to answer, and also refused to say if she had been a correspondent for the Universal Trades Syndicate or if she had been employed by the Moscow Weekly News.

Mrs. Bazer testified at an open hearing.

Mrs. Bazer said she did office work until mid-September of this year for a manufacturing firm.

Morris said the same firm employed Jack S. Harris, an African affairs expert, who was granted a $40,000 indemnity after being dismissed from the U. N. as a result of an earlier subcommittee probe of U. N. subversives.

Morris said Sidney Glassman, another U. N. employee dismissed under similar circumstances, also was employed by the firm.

"I regard it as an unusual circumstance that these three people all worked for the same firm," commented Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), subcommittee chairman.

Mrs. Bazer declined to name the firm, saying she did not "regard it as pertinent."

Henry Cabot Lodge, chief United States delegate to the U. N., told the subcommittee yesterday he hoped to upset the U. N. decision affecting 11 American employees of the U. N. fired for refusing to answer questions about Communism but who were later ordered reinstated or awarded cash indemnities.

He also told Vishinsky that "The French government wishes to affirm here that it will pursue its relentless efforts to solve by negotiation all the problems that now beset Europe."

Charter New AFL Union

Long-shoremen Have 9 Committee Members to Replace Ousted Old ILA

ST. LOUIS #—The AFL today chartered a new longshoremen's union and launched a plan to curb jurisdictional fights between rival AFL unions.

AFL President George Meany issued the new longshoremen's charter to a nine-man group of union officials and said the new union will be governed temporarily by a five-man committee headed by Meany himself.

The new union is to replace the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), which the AFL convention earlier this week ousted from the AFL.

The ILA was kicked out because crime investigators had accused it of harboring criminal elements on the New York and New Jersey waterfronts.

The convention, nearing an end of its week-long sessions, approved a plan designed as a first step toward curbing intra-AFL squabbles over job rights—that is, arguments between rival AFL unions as to which one's members should perform various types of work.

The plan, adopted by the convention calls for an immediate study by a special AFL executive council committee to establish dispute-settlement machinery.

The resolution adopted by the convention calls for a conference of AFL union leaders within six months to try to agree on such machinery. It provides that any plan agreed upon then may be put into effect immediately.

Meany hailed the convention action as the first time the AFL has ever attempted to deal with the jurisdictional problem in such a broad manner.

"You know and I know," Meany told the delegates, "these fights between our unions are hurting us. If we can get this problem out of the way, we can get down to the bigger job of organizing the unorganized workers of America."

Meany named a committee consisting of himself and four AFL top officials to supervise the new longshoremen's union, which the AFL hopes will take over most of the ousted ILA's 60,000 members.

Besides Meany, members of this committee are AFL Vice Presidents Dave Beck, William C. Donerty, President Al Hayes of the Maritime Union, and Secretary-Treasurer Paul Hall of the Seafarers' International Union.

Also coming up today was a "no raiding" agreement with the CIO which was due for delegate approval.

The agreement tentatively worked out by AFL and CIO leaders to outlaw "raids" between the rival federations requires approval of both the AFL and CIO conventions before it becomes effective next Jan. 1.

"Raiding" is the union term for efforts to get groups of already-organized workers to switch allegiance from one union to another.

The pact is regarded by union leaders as a necessary first step toward an AFL-CIO merger.

An important qualification of the agreement, which was expected to get approval both at today's AFL convention and at the CIO convention in Cleveland in November, is that it binds only the AFL and CIO unions later signing it.

Among AFL unions which have indicated they may not go along are the teamsters, carpenters and pattern makers' unions. Several CIO unions also have been cool to the idea. But AFL and CIO leaders hope the pact, once in effect, will eventually be endorsed by all unions.

The agreement would commit all subscribing AFL-CIO unions for a two-year period to put any "raiding" question up to arbitrators, whose decisions could be legally enforced in the courts.

Former President Harry Truman participated in convention memorial services yesterday for the late AFL President William Green.

Young Mother Dies Of Cancer, Happy Her Baby Was Born in Time

TULSA, Okla. #—Mrs. Colleen Alford, whose two great hopes after she knew she was doomed by cancer were to bear her baby and celebrate her 20th birthday, died at her mother's home today.

Her birthday came two days after doctors delivered her baby girl by Caesarean section July 31, fearful the young woman might not live long enough for normal birth.

Mrs. Alford, wife of an aircraft worker, suffered from cancer of the lymph glands.

Her mother, Mrs. Delman Bacon, reported her daughter "was quite happy in the last hours of her life in company of her baby."

Big Hurricane Heads Toward Gulf's Shores

Winds of 120 mph. Blow Storm Between Mobile and St. Marks

NEW ORLEANS #—A king-sized hurricane packing winds up to 120 miles per hour headed today for the Gulf Coast area between Mobile, Ala., and St. Marks, Fla.

The weather bureau said in a 10 a. m. advisory the center of the hurricane was located about 340 miles south of Mobile and was moving northward about 18 miles per hour.

Should the storm continue on its present course hurricane winds would reach the area tonight, the bureau said.

"This is a severe hurricane and all interests in the display area should take proper precautions for protection of life and property," the bureau said.

The advisory said gales extend 200 miles northeast and 100 miles south and west of the hurricane's center.

Northeast storm warnings were ordered hoisted west of Mobile to Grand Isle, La., and southeast storm warnings south of St. Marks to the Tampa Bay area.

The bureau said indications were the hurricane would continue its northward movement at about the same rate with a tendency to curve to the north-northeast within the next six to 12 hours.

Earlier, the Coast Guard reported that a tugboat and its 263-foot tow barge believed carrying a crew of 50, were helpless at the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Gale winds of 55-65 miles per hour were predicted for the area tonight.

The Coast Guard identified the vessels as the tugboat Margaret Root and the barge Herman B. Leavy. Weather prevented the long tow from making a turn into south-west pass at the mouth of the river.

The vessels were caught in a position where they couldn't get in or out of the river and were at the mercy of the wind and sea.

The Coast Guard said the Herman B. had crew quarters aboard and were believed carrying fifty crewmen.

As the hurricane churned nearer the coastline today, the Military Air Transport Service began flying planes out of Mobile to inland bases.

The big transports based in Mobile were being flown to Tinker Air Force Base, Okla., and Kelly AFB, Tex.

Meanwhile, a south east storm warnings were ordered up from the Tampa Bay area to the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Three Minute Ceremony For Dick and Rita

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (P)—Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes are on the fourth honeymoon for each of them today following a brief flash-bulb wedding in a gambling resort hotel.

"I feel wonderfully happy," the red-haired bride said after the three-minute ceremony. "I am married to the man I really love. It sounds so wonderful to be called Mrs. Haymes."

The movie star and the crooner fly to New York Saturday and later to Philadelphia, where the bridegroom starts a night club engagement Monday night.

"Our careers, in fact nothing, will ever separate us," Rita declared. She said she'll travel with Haymes on his night club tour. They have rented a house in Greenwich, Conn. Miss Hayworth said she'll commute between there and Hollywood for one picture a year.

The ceremony was performed by Judge Frank MacNamee in the Gold Room of the Sands Hotel. Roulette games and slot machines continued whirling in the nearby casino.

Rita's two daughters, Rebecca, 8, by her marriage to actor Orson Welles, and Princess Yasmine, 3½, by ex-husband Aly Khan, looked on from a divan.

The bride couple said their "I do's" firmly. Big tears came into Rita's eyes at the words. The double ceremony was over before she got her ring on Dick's finger; she put it on afterward. Little Yasmine shrieked, "Mama, I want a ring, too."

Several hundred persons lined the way as the couple, arm in arm, walked from her quarters in a remote part of the hotel to the ceremony.

Miss Hayworth wore a short-sleeved, blue linen dress, a tassel-colored tulle and velvet hat and matching gloves. Her bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley. Haymes wore a blue pin-stripe suit with blue tie.

Before her marriages to Welles and Prince Aly, Rita was wed to oilman Edward Judson. Haymes' previous wives were actress Joan Dru, dancer Joanne Marshall, and Nora Flynn Haymes, ex-wife of Errol Flynn. The crooner got a Nevada divorce Wednesday from Nora, who obtained a California decree from him last week.

In connection with his immigration difficulties, meantime, the honeymooning couple could take cheer from a federal court decision yesterday in Miami, Fla.

In a similar case at Miami, Judge John W. Holland ruled in Federal District Court that the return of Harry O. Voller, 62, former Miami Beach newspaper publisher, from Puerto Rico in 1951 "did not constitute an entry into the United States within the meaning of the 1917 Immigration Act."

Puerto Rico and Hawaii are insular possessions of the United States. Judge Holland held that "For a resident alien to make a reentry, he must go to a foreign port."

Cat's Meows Save Home, Perhaps Life Of Its Mistress

OKLAHOMA CITY (P)—Bib, a stray cat that wouldn't take no for an answer, is credited with saving her mistress' home and perhaps her life yesterday.

Mrs. L. M. Bush, who gave the stray cat a home last winter, said she was awakened by a bolt of lightning before dawn but returned to find on finding no damage.

Unable to hush the cat's meowing outside, she opened the door and found the porch aflame. Firemen arrived quickly and were able to save the home.

There are lots of ways to make money, and the prisons are full of counterfeiters to prove it.

Veeck Gets OK From Owners To Move Browns

ST. LOUIS (P)—Owner Bill Veeck was given the green light by stockholders today to move his St. Louis Browns.

Now it's up to the American League to approve Veeck's request to transfer his franchise and pick out a new location. The league meets in special session at New York Sunday for that purpose.

Veeck, who with his associates controls 79 per cent of the club's stock, met with stockholders in his offices at Busch Stadium today. The group agreed to a constitutional amendment allowing the Browns to move to some other city "if in the judgment of the board of directors, that should appear desirable."

The controlling group, members of the board, already has gone on record as wanting to switch locations. His petition to move already has been approved by an American League committee which forwarded its finding in form of a recommendation to the league as a whole.

Going into the Sunday meeting most of the sign posts for the Browns' migration point to Baltimore, a spot Veeck had selected last winter before the league turned thumbs down on a shift last spring. Numerous other cities have been mentioned from time to time, however, including Toronto, Montreal, and Kansas City.

The vote approving the constitutional amendment represented 86.92 per cent of the stockholders, a little more than Veeck and his associates expected. The opposing votes represented .56 per cent.

Neither truck was dunned.

Danish Vice Consul Ends 20-Year Search For 2 Missing Heirs

ST. LOUIS (P)—Alert work by the Danish vice consul here has ended a 20-year search for two missing heirs.

Mrs. Laura Peterson of Frederiksborg, Denmark, died and left an "annuity" payable to Brynjul Hagerup-Nissen of St. Louis and Mrs. G. E. Olmsted of Kansas City.

Efforts to locate the pair, nephew and niece to Mrs. Peterson, were conducted by mail unsuccessfully by a Copenhagen attorney.

Wednesday Clifford Corneli, the vice consul, was asked for help. He quickly found one reason Hagerup-Nissen couldn't be found—the attorney had been writing to a house on Rhodes Street which doesn't exist. Corneli tried Rhodes Street. A man named Nissen used to live there.

He was a chemist for a brewery here. Corneli probed more and found Brynjul Hagerup-Nissen has shortened his name to Bryn Nissen.

He found Nissen yesterday and, through him, Mrs. Olmsted. She now lives in Traverse City, Mich.

Neither Corneli or Nissen know how much money is in the estate.

Sixth Hurricane Gaining Strength In Gulf of Mexico

son's sixth hurricane, gaining in both size and intensity, lashed through the Gulf of Mexico early today about 430 miles south of Pensacola, Fla.

The day-old storm was moving in a northwesterly direction with winds estimated at 90 miles an hour near its center, and was expected to continue along this general course with a slow turn to the north.

The New Orleans weather Bureau said in an advisory at 5 a. m. (EST) that the hurricane, named Florence for the sixth letter in the alphabet, was traveling at about 14 miles per hour but was expected to pick up more speed as it roared through the Gulf.

The weather bureau said gales extend 200 miles to the northeast and half that distance to the west and south of center. Ships in the path of the storm were advised to exercise caution and small craft from the upper Texas coast through the Florida Keys were urged to remain in port.

Winds along the Gulf Coast east of Grand Isle, La., to Panama City, Fla., likely will reach gale strength by early Saturday, the weather bureau said.

The northward turn in the hurricane's course was expected to develop during the next 12 to 24 hours.

Hurricane Florence developed yesterday in the Caribbean about 60 miles southwest of the western tip of Cuba. It was still too early for forecasters to predict where the storm would strike a coast-line.

Urges Enactment Of Legislation On Labor Unions

KANSAS CITY (P)—Enactment of laws regulating the internal organization and conduct of labor unions was recommended to the Missouri Senate Criminal Law Revision Committee here yesterday by Jackson Prosecutor Richard K. Phelps.

At the same time, Phelps told the senate the state needed an "enlightened code" that would give unions more confidence in the courts.

Phelps was the first witness in the committee's scheduled three-day hearing.

He proposed laws to give governing bodies authority to audit union financial records; to require unions to keep adequate account books; to set up a board or commission to supervise union elections; and to fix by law the number of members of any given union who must be present in order to constitute a quorum at a business meeting.

"The state should guarantee the rights of every individual union member," Phelps said. "It should safeguard those rights in such a way that a union would belong to all the membership, rather than to a few leaders."

On the question of union fears of the courts, Phelps said: "I believe that if unions had proper confidence in the courts there would be an end to the race to sign up ex-Golden Gloves champions as bodyguards and general enforcers."

The committee will make its recommendations to the 1955 Legislature.

Merry-Go-Round Ike Gave Green Light For Sales Tax Before Talk

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—There's been a lot of speculation as to what General Eisenhower meant by the use of that ominous word "tax" when in Boston he said that "no sacrifice, no labor, no tax, no service" was too hard for us to bear in defense of our freedom.

Light may be thrown on this statement when you know that a week or ten days ago Ike gave the green light to his fiscal aides to prepare a far-reaching national sales tax.

The details have been carefully guarded, and may be subject to change, but the present plan is to propose to Congress an unprecedented "federal manufacturers' excise tax."

Treasury experts concluded some weeks ago that such a tax was necessary but were hesitant about putting it forward in the face of certain hostility on Capitol Hill. However, Treasury aides figure that if the new tax doesn't have to be collected by the retailer every time he makes a sale, it won't be quite so unpopular with the public.

The Treasury has taken as its model the Canadian sales tax which exempts food and a few other essentials, but hits almost all other consumer products. It will be collected from the manufacturer, not the retailer.

Ike was told there would be terrific resentment from some groups in Congress at the proposal of a national sales tax, but despite this he indicated he was ready to take the political consequences. He has great confidence in Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, feels that anything he proposes must be sound.

The above tax discussion took place before Congressman Dan Reed of New York sounded off against a national sales tax. Nevertheless, White House insiders say the President hasn't changed his mind. Hence the Boston speech build-up.

Note—On April 16 this column published a secret report prepared by Carl Byoir, the high-powered publicity mogul, for Assistant Secretary of Commerce Craig Sheffer, the fountain-pen man now resigned, proposing a concealed propaganda campaign to put across a national sales tax. It proposed using unsuspecting civic organizations, TV programs, trade associations, etc., to educate public opinion and build up the right atmosphere for a sales tax.

Washington Whirl
When Herbert Brownell first took office he let it be known he would select the highest type lawyer possible for solicitor general. He even sought the advice of the late Chief Justice, Fred Vinson, to help pick such a man. Eight months have now passed, and Brownell still hasn't been able to pick a solicitor general. . . . Remarkable Bill Kittrell of Texas at the Chicago Democratic dinner: "When you see Chip Robert, Ed Pauley and Dick Reynolds, three ex-treasurers of the Democratic party, all turn out in full force, then you can be sure things are picking up for the Democrats." . . . Bob Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago, is being groomed by John B. Elliott to run for the Senate from California. . . . Sen. Theodore Francis Green, one of the few millionaires in the U.S. Senate, devotes part of his time to helping refugees and the foreign-born. . . . Archie Underwood of Lubbock Tex., director of the Denver and Fort Worth Railroad, was one Texan who remained loyal to Stevenson-Truman last year. The other day at Chicago he found himself with the best table at the Democratic dinner—right under Truman's nose.

Ike to Paris?
Some of Ike's foreign policy advisers are urging him to attend the NATO foreign ministers' conference in Paris this December in order to pep up the European defense program. If the general goes to Paris where he once served as commander of SHAPE, advisers say he'll dramatize the fact that he's worried over the possibility of Russian aggression and show that the United States intends to stand shoulder to shoulder with free Europe. Also he'll remove some of the sting from decreased American aid. Advisers also suggest that Prime Minister Churchill would make the trip across the channel and join the President for an important conference.

However, the President's doctors have the final word and they are already unhappy about the number of political speeches he's making around the country. They want him to spend as much time in Augusta, Ga., as possible. One doctor even wants Ike to cut out golf.

Color TV In Doubt

The future of color TV is still in doubt. The most reliable industry estimate now is that next year 75,000 color television sets will be sold, at a cost of $800 each. In three years there should be a million and one half color sets in U.S. homes, sold at much lower prices.

These figures are advanced by Dr. W. R. G. Baker, chairman of the National Television System Committee. The group, composed of engineers from the industry, has finally come up with a color system which appears to have everybody's approval. But it still needs Federal Communications Commission sanction.

Even with almost unanimous agreement on the feasibility of the new system, Baker calls his guess on sales "a horseback estimate."

"And the horse isn't much good," he adds. You have to buy a new set to get color pictures with the new system. And you can get both black-and-white and color reception on it. Baker figures that it will cost each station about $50,000 for the equipment needed for color program transmission.

Careful Answer

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson sat next to Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott when Talbott announced the big reduction in jet engine contracts. When one of the reporters directed a question at Wilson about plans for the 143-wing Air Force Talbott leaned over to Wilson and whispered in his ear:

"For heavens sake, Charlie, be careful how you answer this one."

Wilson laughed but did meditate for several long moments before he replied to the query. He said the goal will remain 143 groups until the new Joint Chiefs of Staff study it. They might change it.

Jungles May Be Tame If U.S. Lawlessness Continues

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

In Somerville, Mass., a motor company's mechanics left the ignition keys in a cluster of used cars parked in the firm's lot. Teen-agers who stumbled onto the fact had a wild time crashing the cars into each other head-on. The results: 14 cars smashed and $5,000 damage done. Good clean fun.

In Hollywood, three boys were wrecking some lawn furniture and tossing it into a nearby swimming pool. They happened to be on the property of Lewis Stone, 74-year-old actor famed for "kindly-father" roles. Trying to chase the boys off, he collapsed on a sidewalk and died without regaining consciousness. Another lark.

In Astoria, Long Island, a section of Queens in New York City, people are going to bed these days with kitchen knives at their side, and vigilante-style squads of outraged citizens are patrolling the streets at night. Why? Because the area has been so plagued with prowlers and "muggers" that normal police protection has proved inadequate.

As always, one could multiply these reports. There are too many to shrug off complacently. Basically, ours may be a healthy, orderly society and incidents like these the exception that proves the rule. The trouble is, they are proving the rule a little too often these days.

We have broached this problem before. Explanations undoubtedly are plentiful. In many cities, police forces simply have not been expanded to keep pace with urban growth, and this is most often a matter of money.

But the bigger part of the story seems to lie in the fact that with every passing day more and more undisciplined people, especially young people, are crowding American communities.

U.S. population today is 160 million. By 1975 it may be 220 million. As it mounts, our civilization is tending to become more abrasive. Tensions among people are growing worse. Frustrations are fraying the nerves, the scramble for a living is becoming more hectic. Inevitably, the normal disciplines of society are harder to develop and maintain.

Obviously the answer is not just bigger police forces. In spite of all the tensions and conflicts, we must find a way to train our budding citizens so that they discipline themselves. A lot of mothers and fathers don't like to hear it, but the home is the place to start.

Car-smashing and furniture-wrecking are not larks, but they are relatively minor explosions. Yet, since the causes of these outbursts appear to be growing, we may be in for far greater trouble if we do not act. Unless we do, the African wilds many in time come to look a good deal safer than the brick and pavement jungles in our swelling cities.

Mumps Most Contagious Of All Childhood Diseases

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Mumps is probably the most highly contagious of all of the so-called childhood diseases. It is caused by a virus which appears to be spread with the greatest ease to susceptible persons and can even be carried by a healthy person from one child to another.

Mumps like the other contagious diseases is more common in children than grownups and when the adults do get it they wish they had had it while young. It is not pleasant at any age.

It is inconvenient, somewhat painful, especially when chewing certain foods, and does not flatter the appearance. It is not completely harmless since complications in the kidneys, joints, or brain are not unknown.

But the most feared complication is what is spoken of as "going down"—involvement of the sex glands. This is much more common in men and does not occur at all before maturity which is an argument for having the disease early, if at all.

Studies have been made on this complication. In general it seems that it doesn't occur so terribly often, when it does one side only is frequently involved, and mumps is therefore not often the cause of complete sterility.

It is curious that this virus disease should have such a liking for the salivary glands lying on the sides of the jaws; it is also strange that even though it is highly contagious it often attacks the gland on one side only, leaving the other one susceptible to infection at some later time.

Symptoms in Eight Days
One can expect the first symptoms of mumps about eight days after exposure. As is true of the other contagious diseases local quarantine regulations vary, but apparently there is little danger of infecting others after the swelling has gone down or eight days after the appearance of the first symptoms.

Mumps is not a disease which every youngster has to have though most of us would rather have had it out of the way in our own youth than get it when our children do.

Popular Ambassador

Washingtonians back from visiting in Rome report that Ambassador Claire Booth Luce is getting the same treatment General MacArthur used to get in Tokyo.

Crowds of Italians stand in front of the embassy when she is due to arrive in the morning and wait outside her villa gate to get a glimpse of the glamorous blonde diplomat when she returns.

Her dresses, they report, are a favorite among Italian fashion experts. Her daytime frocks are usually pastels with a business woman's touch of white collars and cuffs.

Speeds Engine Work

Defense officials have decided to step up work on the atomic aircraft engine. Talk of dropping it was scotched when the planners got a recent optimistic progress report.

The project, being carried on by General Electric, has now been reorganized, with the approval of the Air Force and Atomic Energy Commission. It has been taken out of GE's jet engine organization and lumped with other GE atomic programs such as the Hanford plant at Richland, Wash.

'I'll Do It—So Help Me!'

The World Today— Federal Tax Law Changes Due

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—When Congress comes back in January, Rep. Daniel A. Reed is expected to present it immediately with a big bundle of proposed changes in the federal tax laws.

Reed, a New York Republican and one of the most powerful men in Congress, wears two hats: He's chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles tax matters for the House, and he's chairman of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, made up of members of House and Senate.

In August 1951, Reed proposed at a meeting of the joint committee that an overhaul of federal tax laws begin. That such a job needed doing had been obvious a long time.

Over the years Congress had piled one tax law upon another, many times in haste to meet emergency need for revenue. The changes made in the laws from time to time were often patches which did not cover holes.

Through the years, unfailingly, Congress heard from individuals and groups which complained this or that section of the law pinched them unfairly. The federal revenue code now has over 5,000 sections.

The overhaul proposed by Reed began in July 1952, when the staff of the joint committee sent a questionnaire to various groups and organizations around the country, asking for specific suggestions to improve the tax laws.

The staff, composed of lawyers, accountants, economists and statisticians, received over 15,000 suggestions. Groups of tax experts around the country studied problems like these:

Estates and trusts, foreign taxes, depreciation, double taxation of dividends, pension trusts and profit-sharing plans, consolidated returns and the definition of income.

The joint committee staff, the staff of Reed's Ways and Means Committee and staffs of the Treasury Department and the Internal Revenue Service made joint studies covering the entire revenue code.

The joint committee broke down all the suggestions it received to about 40 topics of major importance. These topics presumably would be included in a bill Reed could offer next January for revising the tax laws.

With the 40 topics as a target, the Ways and Means Committee itself held public hearings from last June 16 to Aug. 14. More than 500 witnesses were heard.

A drafting staff—lawyers who work for the House legislative counsel and whose job is drawing up bills to present to Congress—will write the bill for Reed.

After Reed introduced the bill, his Ways and Means Committee could hold more hearings on the proposals he offered. That would require months. The committee members no doubt will want some changes made in what Reed proposes.

When the committee finally agrees, it would produce its own bill. Then it would be up to the House, and later the Senate, to approve. So any changes made won't be made for quite a while.

Reed's bill would cover such items—although this is not definite yet—as more generous allowance for people with dependents under 18 or going to school, problems connected with filing an estimated tax return, and so on.

Reed's staff did not study, and hence he would not propose in his bill, changes in the tax rate, up or down. Reed is a leading congressional foe of tax increases.

XXII

GREER arrived at unobtrusively as possible, by the back road, in an old gray sedan that belonged to one of his sergeants. But in spite of the secrecy the news leaked out that there were policemen around the big house; and where there were policemen there was trouble; and where there was trouble was the place to be.

None of the rumors came close to the story that Willett told Greer. They were in old Mrs. Goodfield's bedroom. Greer paced the floor and Willett standing in the doorway, his eyes fixed rigidly on the empty bed. The odor of ether still clung to the corners, subtle and tenacious as spider webs. On one jagged edge of the glass door a piece of blue silk nightgown was blowing in the breeze like a tiny flag. Greer had noticed the silk but he'd left it, as he'd left everything else in the room, untouched. A special FBI unit was on its way from Los Angeles, and Greer was experienced enough to realize that this unit would handle the physical evidence much better than he could.

"Mother despised Murphy," said Willett.

"Your wife doesn't think so." "I don't see why you're bothering me with these details when Ethel has already told you everything."

"I like to hear your version." "My version!" Willett bleated. "This isn't the kind of thing you have versions of. I can tell you the facts."

He had seen his mother the preceding evening, Willett said, between nine and 10 o'clock. She was feeling somewhat depressed and wanted to be left alone. At midnight when Willett and Ethel went upstairs to retire, they knocked at Mrs. Goodfield's door intending to say good night. Her door was locked and they presumed she was asleep. There had been no unusual odor in the hall at that time.

During the night Jack arrived. "We had a drink and a little chat—"

"That isn't quite what your wife—"

"Ethel," Willett said, "exaggerates."

"Oh."

"Besides, Jack had nothing to do with this affair, this kidnapping."

"I'll eat my badge if Murphy was strong enough to carry a drugged woman out of that door and down that ladder. If Murphy is at the bottom of this, she's sharing the bottom with somebody else."

"Not Jack. I mean—great Scott, chase don't go around kidnapping their own mothers."

"All right," Greer said. "You went to bed. Then what?"

"We got the phone call. That is, Ethel did; the upstairs phone is in her room. But the ringing woke me up, it was around seven o'clock, I think. I heard Ethel talking, arguing with someone. I got up to put a stop to it. I found Ethel standing right in this doorway and there was a terrible smell of ether coming from somewhere. We've got to pay it," Ethel said. I didn't know what she was talking about. I went into mother's room. It was just the way it is now and m-mother was gone."

TEARS welled in Willett's eyes, magnifying the ridges so that they looked ready to pop out of their sockets. Greer wasn't sure whether the tears were caused by mere annoyance or by genuine grief.

"It was all so sudden," Willett said. "So shockingly sudden. The demand for ransom came before we even knew she'd been taken away. Murphy asked for $3,000."

"What were her instructions?"

"She said mother was in safe hands and would be returned, providing we paid the money promptly and didn't inform the police or anyone else of her disappearance. Ethel agreed. She acted right—I don't care what your viewpoint is—Ethel acted right."

Greer didn't argue. "I hope so. You had that much cash in the house?"

"Exactly that much. I'd been to the bank yesterday afternoon and drawn it out to lend to Jack. He'd phoned me in the morning from San Francisco and asked me for a loan."

"Anybody else know about this?"

"Ethel, of course. And my mother. Oh yes, and Shirley, I guess. She's my younger sister."

"And Murphy?"

"I didn't confide in Murphy," Willett said.

"Was Murphy in the house at the time the call came through from San Francisco?"

"I think she was downstairs."

"There's another telephone down there?"

"Yes."

"I think we can assume that Murphy was listening in." He turned to a desk in the room.

"She said mother was in safe hands and would be returned, providing we paid the money promptly and didn't inform the police or anyone else of her disappearance. Ethel agreed. She acted right—I don't care what your viewpoint is—Ethel acted right."

"Yes."

"I think we can assume that Murphy was listening in." He turned to a desk in the room.

THE desk was small, almost child-sized. On it was a fountain pen with its top off, and a piece of paper that had been crumpled and smoothed out again. The paper bore the words, written in a shaky, hesitant hand: "I'm getting scared. I have a premonition." The letters were crudely formed.

"She used the desk," Willett said. "Sometimes she wrote letters, not often."

"Is this her handwriting? Please don't touch the paper."

"I can't tell. Her handwriting changed a lot during her illness. I suppose she wrote this, though I can't understand why."

"Did she go in for premonitions?"

"Premonitions, astrology, fad diets, anything to pass the time. She got bored lying in bed day after day."

Italian Strike Ends After 24 Hour Walkout

ROME (P)—Millions of Italian industrial workers trooped back to work today after a 24-hour general strike that shut down the nation's production facilities tighter than any walkout since 1948. Their return left observers with some tough questions to ponder.

There appeared little likelihood that any quick answers would be found to the perplexities including:

1. Can communism's promised "winter offensive" of strikes cripple Italy's arms production for the North Atlantic alliance?

2. Can Premier Giuseppe Pella's stopgap government meet its pledges to the Atlantic Pact and the European union?

3. Has the strength of the Red left surged back to the night and fury which challenged the nation's Democratic government five years ago?

4. Or were the industrially crippling walkouts yesterday chiefly a non-political demonstration of Italian labor's need for a lot more jobs and higher wages to meet the rising costs of spaghetti and a place to live.

Both Communist and non-Communist unions joined in the walkout, a sure indication that it stemmed from something besides politics or the Reds' anti-NATO campaign.

From the Alps to fruit-rich Sicily, 75 to 95 per cent of the nation's production machinery lay idle yesterday.

U. S. Under Secretary of Defense Roger M. Kyes flew into Turin, Italy's "Little Detroit," to look over the Fiat plants that have orders to produce Sabre jet planes for NATO fighting forces. He found them 80 per cent idle.

America's ambassador to Italy, Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, conferred during the strikebound day with Pella. Presumably their talk included an appraisal of the walkout.

The strike was called to enforce workers' demands for wage increases and higher security guarantees. The Italian Confederation of Industry claimed these would cost 800 million dollars a year. The unions say Italy's industries are making big profits and could well stand to share that much more with the working man.

Hundreds Are Killed On Indochina Coast By Fierce Typhoon

SAIGON, Indochina (P)—Several hundred Indochinese were believed dead and several hundred thousands homeless in a typhoon today which struck a 90-mile stretch of the central Indochina coast.

The destruction was centered on the ancient Annamite capital of Hue, 325 miles north of Saigon. The American economic mission estimated that 90 per cent of the population of Hue, a town of 25,000, and the surrounding area were homeless.

The typhoon reportedly hit an area of the South China seacoast between the big French air and naval base of Tourane and the village of Quang Tri on the north. French and American officials rushed aid to the stricken sections.

A typhoon in the same area last year caused 5,000 deaths and left 500,000 persons homeless.

Typhoon Brings Flood Of Japan, Kills One

TOKYO (P)—The season's 13th typhoon skirted the coast of southern Japan today, flooding farmland and causing at least one death.

U. S. military planes were flown from Irumi air base in southern Japan to a safer zone. In Tokyo, planes were tied down or sheltered.

Winds of 57 miles an hour whipped the Irumi area by noon and were expected to hit Tokyo during the night.

The U. S. Air Force weather station in Tokyo said the center of the typhoon would skip Japan. Japanese observers said that if the storm suddenly changed direction it would be the worst since 1934.

Blames Shooting On 'Business Matters' Today

LEBANON, Tenn. (P)—State Rep. Guy Thackston today blamed "business matters" for an argument which was climaxed by the shooting of his brother-in-law, an attorney and civic leader here.

Thackston, 45, insurance man and farmer, was released under $10,000 bond on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder in the first degree.

His brother-in-law, A. A. Adams, Jr., 50, underwent surgery last night for removal of two .32 caliber revolver bullets in the abdomen. His condition was described as "very serious."

Police Lt. Joe Rich said the shooting occurred yesterday afternoon at Adams' office in the presence of Mrs. Vertruse Eskew, his secretary. Four shots were fired, the policeman added.

Thackston surrendered to police a few minutes later, Rich said.

"It was a clash of personalities," said Thackston, a Methodist Sunday school teacher. "It was one of those cases where you go farther than you ever think you would."

He declined to elaborate on the "business matters."

Thackston represented Wilson and Davidson (Nashville) counties as a legislative representative in the 1952 Legislature and is a past president of the Tennessee Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Posse of One Bursts Young Boy's Dream Of Being a Cowboy

HOUSTON, Tex. (P)—An 11-year-old boy's day dreams of being just like the cowboys was shattered yesterday.

A one-man, blue-clad, pistol-packing posse bursted the bubble. Last month, the boy, realizing a cowboy had to have boots, called at a shoe shop. He found just what he wanted but the shop's manager said the boots belonged to a customer.

That night, someone wriggled through a cross-barred rear window of the shop and took the boots. Then a policeman got a tip. He questioned the boy.

Yes, the boy said, he'd rustled the boots.

He was willing to return them, on one condition.

"Don't tell Roy Rogers," he said.

Webbs Battle Skunks For Home Ownership

SHOW LOW, Ariz. (P)—About the same time the Paul Webbs took over their new home, a family of skunks moved in under their front porch.

Webb set a trap, but captured only the neighbor's cat.

The next night, he tossed a gas pill under the porch. Out came an odor just as bad.

Things are at an impasse, but Webb says he is planning his next move.

Says Complete Study Of Segregation In Vet Hospitals Under Way

WASHINGTON (P)—A White House spokesman said today a "complete and thorough analysis" of segregation of Negro and white patients in veterans' hospitals is underway to aid in bringing it to an end.

Maxwell Rabb, White House race relations specialist, said the analysis is being made to work out a technique by which to carry out President Eisenhower's order to eliminate segregation in Veterans' Administration (VA) hospitals.

Rabb said he didn't know how soon segregation could be ended. That is one of the things the analysis will help determine, he added.

Clarence Mitchell, official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), said in a separate interview the NAACP "has been assured by the White House that segregation will be ended in VA facilities."

Mitchell said segregation exists in one form or another in all but five VA hospitals in 17 southern and southwestern states.

US May Give Reds a Choice In Korea Pact

NEW YORK (P)—The New York Times said today U. S. government officials are planning to give the Communists at the Korean peace conference a choice between agreeing to an independent Korea under international guarantee or facing the continued presence of American troops in the war-torn peninsula.

In a dispatch from United Nations headquarters, the Times added, however, that the plan has not yet received final approval from the National Security Council or President Eisenhower, although its basic principles have been disclosed to representatives of at least two of the 15 other U. N. members with fighting forces in Korea.

"There is no doubt," the Times declared, "that the policy reflects the belief in the State Department that it offers the only hope that a permanent settlement of the Korean question can be reached in the foreseeable future."

The dispatch said: Present plans are to present the Communists with the choice of "two basic courses of action"—to continue blocking the unification of Korea or to agree to the establishment of a free and independent Korea with the withdrawal of all foreign military forces.

If the Communists okay unification of the peninsula, the United States would be prepared to join Korea's neutrality. This would be accompanied by reciprocal safeguards that an all-Korean government would not offer a military threat to the Soviet Union or Communist China and they in turn would not threaten Korea.

If the Soviet Union and Communist China do not agree, the United States "will maintain large forces in South Korea as long as there is any possibility of another aggression by North Korea."

Dr. Karl Hong Koo, director of the ROK Public Information Office, said "There is nothing definite at the present time," but he acknowledged "there is a lot of talk" among government officials about such a move.

The U. N. Command has handled military censorship in Korea for the past three years. The ROK government has had no control over stories sent from the country.

President Syngman Rhee's government has cracked down on Korean newspapers at times of political unrest, however, and only recently it announced plans to compel foreign news agencies and correspondents to register. The proposals await adoption by the National Assembly.

Man Surrenders After Another Is Fatally Shot

LOS ANGELES (P)—Several hours after Douglas De Voss, 32, wealthy publisher of metaphysical literature, was shot and killed in his downtown office, Walter Henry Kruse, 53, Minneapolis postman, surrendered to police.

Flanked by three attorneys, Kruse gave himself up last night and was booked on suspicion of murder.

Kruse's estranged wife, Hazel Mary, 45, was quoted by officers as saying her husband had threatened for years to kill her and their son and daughter. The couple has been married 27 years. Mrs. Kruse was employed as a housekeeper by De Voss after his wife, Dorothy, died in childbirth last June.

Employees in De Voss' office told police that Kruse brushed by them and fired three or four shots at the publisher.

His secretary, Mrs. Sunny Widdell said De Voss had not met Kruse until last Saturday, when Kruse sought to learn where his wife was living.

Mrs. Kruse told officers her husband had accused De Voss of impeding their reconciliation but that in reality he had been trying to get them back together again.

She said she had decided to sue for divorce in Minneapolis but that her husband had persuaded her to come here and try to make their marriage succeed in new surroundings. Shortly after they came here they separated.

Mrs. Kruse told police, "My husband is insanely jealous." She added that her relations with De Voss were strictly business.

Tigers Meet Joplin Here Tonight

Neither Coach Predicting Win for Team

Tonight's Lineup
Sedalia	Pos.	Joplin
Neal	LE	Blain
Walt, Co-Cpt.	LT	Perkins
Kelley	LG	McKelvey
Bohon	RG	Hackney
Ford	RT	Pflug
Crouch	RE	Smith
Walter	QB	Kelley

Bennett QB Harris
Case LHB Ashmore
Bryan RHB Cooney
Lynch, Co-Cpt. FB Newman
(*) John Johnson, 248-pound tackle, may start against Sedalia in place of Bill Smith.

Tonight is the night when the Smith-Cotton High School Tigers open the 1953 home football season against the Joplin High School Bulldogs on the new griviron at the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Stadium west of Liberty Park. Game time is 8 p. m.

Joplin is coming to Sedalia for its first game of the 1953 season and little is known about the strength of the team other than 11 lettermen are back from last year, supplemented with plenty of material in the 35 man traveling squad.

Coach Russ Kaminsky of the Joplin aggregation has made no predictions as to what his team will or will not do to the Tigers. He is only looking forward to an improved season over 1952 when his team won six, lost one and tied two.

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow on Thursday night had little to say about the Tigers other than "I hope they play good and I'll be greatly disappointed if they don't." Dow, likewise, is looking forward to an improved season over the last year's count of three victories and five losses.

During the past week the Tigers have been given some hard workouts in practice and the team has sharpened up on their plays over the turned in against Kemper Military Academy when the locals won 19-6.

It was well to note the predictions of the Democrat-Capitol football panel. The experts predict three to one the Joplin team will win while the guest panel has given a reversal of that opinion, with three to one favoring the Tigers. Two panel members were excused. Coach Dow on the regular expert panel and Howard Glavin on the guest panel, they being the Tiger coaches.

And it is well to look at the predictions. The experts predict Joplin victories of better than two touchdowns, while every guest of the one expert and the regular panel favoring Smith-Cotton are from one-point to one touchdown. Tonight the Tigers are expected to make the faces of the experts turn red. The boys are determined to do their best to come through for Smith-Cotton.

Big Seven Grid Games Briefs

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers will have a half dozen ends in its 34 man squad that tackles Illinois at Champaign tomorrow, but only two of them are reported in top notch condition. Coach Bill Glassford of Nebraska said he'd start Andy Loehr, who missed the opener with Oregon because of a broken jaw last week, and Bill Schabacker, who hurt an ankle in the Oregon fray. They are the healthy boys.

Four other fellows will go along to help out just in case Loehr and Schabacker can't make the grade. Oregon beat Nebraska 20-12 last week.

The big game featuring a Big Seven member will be the Oklahoma-Notre Dame battle at Norman, Okla.

Notre Dame will be out to break Oklahoma's record of 25 successive home ground victories. And the Irish are favored by a slight margin.

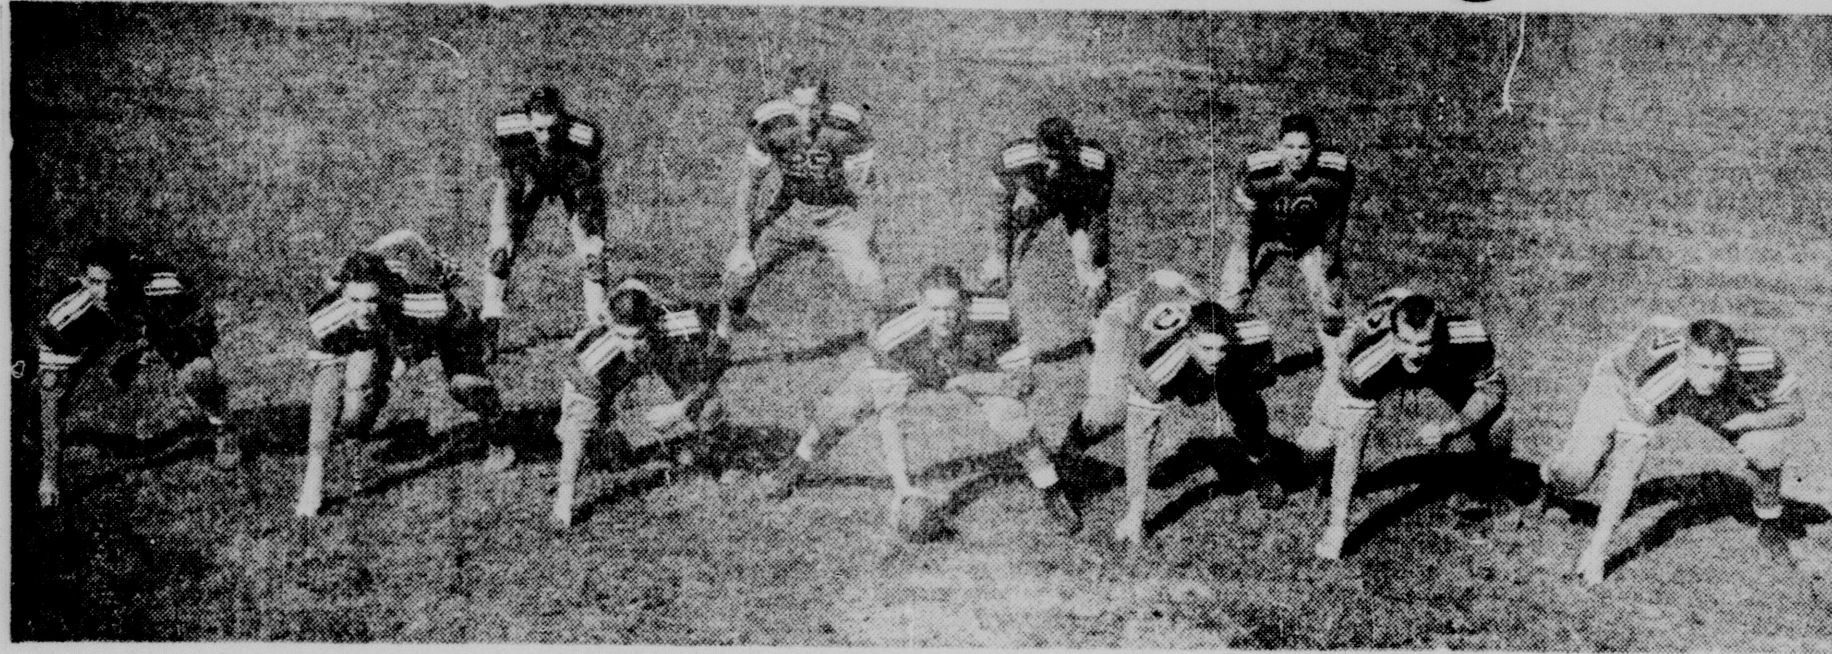

Kansas Jayhawks, beaten 13-0 by TCU last week, appear in for another rough encounter with UCLA at Los Angeles tonight.

Purdue moves into Columbia, Mo., to renew an old series with the Missouri Tigers. Missouri will be a one-touchdown underdog to the Big Ten defending co-champions. The teams last met in 1905. Purdue has a 3-1 edge in past games.

Colorado, which made the best showing of six Big Seven teams by beating Washington 21-20 at Seattle last Saturday, is favored to add another victory at the expense of Arizona in Boulder.

Iowa State meets Northwestern at Evanston and Coach Abe Stuber says he will be "happy if we hold 'em to 20 points."

Kansas State will play Colorado A. & M. at Fort Collins. The Big Seven Wildcats showed a touch of improvement by beating Drake 30-0 last week.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Roland LaStarza had the heart but Rocky Marciano had the guns, and so the human block of granite from Brockton, Mass., still holds the heavyweight championship of the world today.

Few fighters in the annals of the cruel sport have taken a more brutal beating than the ex-collegian from the Bronx absorbed last night before Referee Ruby Goldstein stepped in midway of the 11th round at the Polo Grounds and cried enough. Outclassed and almost defenseless for the final four rounds, LaStarza had done all that could have been asked of him.

Today, just a year and two days since he pulverized Jersey Joe Walcott at Philadelphia to win the title, Marciano stands a colossus aghast the game. With LaStarza's star set, probably for good as a serious contender, the Rock has no rival of real stature. He must be accepted as one of the great champions.

He proved last night before an awestruck crowd of 45,362 that there is nothing to hold him off once he starts moving forward and throwing those oaken arms of his. LaStarza tried. He fought back as long as it was physically possible and he tried every stratagem he knew. He made it close for six rounds. Then the roof began caving in on him.

Early in the 11th and fatal round, Rocky rushed his bleeding rival against the ropes and with a lethal succession of left-right-left swings to the jaw slammed LaStarza to the canvas for the first knockdown of the fight. LaStarza rose on his trembling legs well before the count of nine, but as Goldstein wiped his gloves clean and sent him forth again it was evident that the challenger had made his bid and failed.

Again the Rock barreled in, throwing both fists with all he had, apparently as fresh and relentless as he had been in the opening round. When it was evident that LaStarza could not defend against the furious attack, Goldstein leaped to save him. The beaten man stared dully, blood frothing on his lips, and made no dissent.

For nearly four full rounds before that the crowd, relentless champion had been in full charge. He first had hurt LaStarza seriously in the seventh when he slugged him into the ropes and for the last two minutes pounded the hapless challenger all over the ring almost without a return. Only LaStarza's fighting spirit enabled him to weather the punishment.

The eighth, ninth and tenth rounds followed much the same pattern.

For all that LaStarza will go into the big book only as a game boy who thought he could lick Marciano and learned that the job was beyond him. But he gave the great crowd which paid $435,817, 98 a few thrills before he was tagged. He was as unfrightened as he had promised he would be. He fought and he never did run, even when he must have realized he had had it.

On this score card they were dead level for the first six rounds —two for LaStarza, two for Marciano and two even. Referee Goldstein had it even, too, and the two judges gave the challenger an edge to that point, partly because Goldstein took the sixth round away from the champ for an obviously low blow, however unintentional.

Otterville Hi Wins 12-4 Over Clarksburg 9

The Otterville High School softball team defeated the Clarksburg High School 14-4 Thursday night to give the Clarksburg girls avenged the defeat suffered a week ago by defeating Otterville 13-2.

Williams was on the mound for the Eagles and pitched another good game, allowing three hits, one walk and striking out 13. At no time were the Eagles in any danger of a threat from Clarksburg from the first inning, when they piled up a 9-0 lead.

Three hurlers worked for Clarksburg and gave up a total of six hits and ten walks.

Meyer homered, Williams tripped and Kinde doubled for Otterville while Heather had a triple for Clarksburg.

Monday night the Eagles travel to Green Ridge and on Friday they enter the Cooper County tournament at Boonville.

Charley Phillips Has Injured Foot

Charles Phillips, No. '66' at left tackle on the University of Missouri Tigers, is not expected to be in the lineup Saturday against Purdue. Charley suffered a foot injury in the Maryland game and it is such that Coach Don Faurot has decided to give Phillips an extra week to let it recover before going into Big Seven Conference competition.

Ike Jennings, left end, and Terry Roberts, left guard, likewise were noted in the "hospital list" of Faurot, but they may get back into action Saturday.

Notes On World Series Players

NEW YORK (AP)—The Dodgers will have had more of everything in batting this season when they meet the Yankees for the fifth time in a World Series, starting next Wednesday. They lead the bombers in hitting average, 283-276; runs, 942-798; hits, 1,409-1,407; doubles, 260-215; triples, 57-51 and home runs, 206-139.

Red Sox Manager Lou Boudreau, who piloted the Cleveland Indians to a world's championship in 1948, strings along with the Yankees this year. "I honestly think that pitching will give the Yankees their edge," he says. "Reynolds and Raschi are much better pitchers than they are given credit for being this season."

Of the 54 players eligible for the classic, 10 of them live in California. They won't have to take as much of a trip home as the one Eddie Lopat has set for himself. The Yankee veteran will take a group of major leaguers to Japan for a series of exhibitions.

Gene Woodling has made only two errors in more than 500 chances during the last two seasons. Yet the Yankee outfielder has erred three times in the 53 chances he's had in 29 series games.

Allie Reynolds needs only two more victories to break the all-time series mark. The big Yankee righthander has won six games, only one less than the record set by Red Ruffing, also with the Yankees.

The Dodgers have been shut out only once this season while the Yankees have been blanked 11 times. On the other hand, Yankee pitchers have accounted for 13 shutouts against 11 for the Brooks.

Ted Williams Story--No. 5-- Ted Plans to Retire, Quit Baseball After 1955 Season

By JOE REICHLER

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams, hitting better than he ever did in his life, plans to retire from baseball after the 1955 season.

The great Boston Red Sox slugger wants to stay in baseball just long enough to attain his financial goal. The highest salaried player in the game, Ted is not as financially set as most people think.

Nearly five years in the service has cost Williams close to a million dollars, before taxes. Last year alone he lost a quarter of a million dollars both in salary and outside sources, according to his business manager, Fred Corcoran.

Williams is not pleading poverty. In fact, if he were to retire from baseball today, he'd probably still be financially secure for the rest of his life.

Because of Corcoran's expert handling of Williams' affairs, Ted today is an active partner in a fishing business, the Southern Tackle Distributors, which does a million and a half dollars worth of business a year. Ted owns 25 per cent of the business on a $75,000 investment.

Williams, who is being paid $50,000 for playing this year and will receive $100,000 next year, figures to earn another $100,000 in endorsements within the next 12 months. The "Ted Williams Enterprises" is associated with a sports shoe, a sports shirt, slacks, fishing equipment and other sporting goods. He also will receive $10,000 for a week's appearance in the sportsman's show in Boston next January.

"I expect to play two more years," Williams disclosed, "no more. Maybe one. Just long enough for me to reach my financial goal. If I can make it in another year or two, I'll have things worked out the way I want them to. When I move along, I expect to have a good business going for me. It will be some time before it ever pays me anything close to my baseball salary. But it's a start. And it will enable me to do what I like best—fish and hunt all I want to."

The lean slugger revealed he might be out of baseball now had it not been for the war.

"I told Tom Yawkey (Red Sox owner) during the 1951 season that I intended to quit after one more year," Ted said. "Of course, at the time I didn't realize I would be called back to the Marines. I had decided to quit because I had found that baseball was getting to be work. I was finding it difficult getting out of bed in the morning. I got to thinking that I was getting old. Funny, but I don't feel that way now. Maybe it's because I feel fresher because of not having played much this year."

"When I hang up my glove, it will be a full time job. I'll go so quick, it will make everybody's head swim. I won't hang around waiting for the last gasp. The minute I find I can't go at top speed, or that baseball is no longer fun, I'll know it's time to quit, put the bat away and go fishing."

Williams didn't intend to play this year. It was only upon the insistence of General Manager Joe Cronin and Yawkey.

"I'm glad I decided to play," he said.

"I believe playing these last few weeks will be beneficial to me next season. I've had the opportunity to see and study the new pitchers in the league. . ."

Williams, as he's done every year he's been in the big leagues, has already set several goals for himself for the 1954 season.

"I've set my sights on a 300 batting average, 30 home runs, 100 runs batted in, 100 runs scored and 100 bases on balls," he said.

"I've got three ambitions before I quit. I want to lead the league in batting again, I want to reach 400 home runs and collect 2,000 hits. I'm afraid I won't achieve either one."

He intends to hie himself to his winter home in Miami, Fla., as soon as the season ends. He will do some fishing in the Everglades during the fall, rest awhile before making a tour of the South and Central America for his fishing tackle outfit.

National Loop Batting Champ Still to Come

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The final three games may determine a surprise National League batting champion while the potential winner sits in the dugout nursing an aching hand.

The laurels probably will go to Carl Furillo, the Brooklyn Dodgers' right fielder. Furillo hasn't played since he broke the little finger of his left hand in a free-for-all at the Polo Grounds Sept. 6. He ended his season with 165 hits in 473 times at bat, an average of .345.

But three other men still have a fighting chance.

The three, in the order of their chances, are Red Schoendienst, the switch-hitting second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals; Duke Snider, Furillo's center field teammate, and Stan (The Man) Musial of the Cardinals, the defending champion and six time batting king.

Here's what they would have to do to catch Furillo, figuring that each will get 12 more times at bat—a good standard figure of four times up in each of the three last games:

Schoendienst needs seven hits. This would give him an average of .348. Six hits would leave him .00044 short of Furillo.

Snider needs nine hits. His average then would be .34576. Eight hits would leave him, too, short by .00040.

Musial, of course, faces the toughest job of all. He needs 10 hits in 12 times up to finish with .346.

Schoendienst and Musial will be playing their three games against the Cubs in Chicago. Snider will see action at Philadelphia.

Of the three men Snider has gained the most ground in the last month. He has gotten 44 hits in 92 times at bat since Aug. 25, raising his average from .313 to .337.

Musial was in a terrific slump during the spring and didn't start to make real progress until after the All-Star game. Like Snider, he's come with a rush in the past 20 days with 49 hits in 120 times at bat. During that spell he improved his average from .315 to .334.

Schoendienst, on the other hand, has been on top or among the leaders all season. A month ago he was hitting .340. Then he dropped off suddenly, slumping to as low as .320. He's jumped to .339 in just over a week.

All of the clubs were idle yesterday. Tonight there is a full program in the American League. Boston is at New York, Philadelphia at Washington, Detroit at Cleveland and Chicago at St. Louis.

In the National League the Cardinals and Cubs play a day game in Chicago, Brooklyn is at Philadelphia tonight and New York is at Pittsburgh. Milwaukee and Cincinnati get another day off.

Nobody Reads Signs, Chinese or English

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—East is East and West is West and nobody pays any attention to traffic signs.

The San Francisco police department, intensifying an anti-jaywalking campaign, erected two new pedestrian warning signs in famed Chinatown. In Chinese characters the signs warned "Don't cross the street here."

However, most Chinese just read the signs, they crossed the street anyway—just like their Occidental brothers are doing elsewhere in the city.

Hecklers Find Joke Costly - $100 Each

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Three youths said yesterday they thought it was a joke when they stopped to heckle a motorcycle patrolman who was giving a motorist a ticket for speeding.

The patrolman, Walter Fisher, and City Judge Robert G. Dowd didn't have the same sense of humor.

"Do you think this is a joke?" Judge Dowd asked as he fined each $100 and costs.

The speeder was fined only $15.

Fix No Liability In Fatal Collision

A coroner's jury at Kansas City returned a verdict of no criminal liability Thursday in the traffic death July 29 of Joseph Hughes, 70 years old, 1732 Fuller Avenue, Kansas City.

Hughes was a passenger in a car driven by Arthur B. Bailey, 42, of 4209 Minnie Street, Kansas City. It and a vehicle driven by Ivan Harsch, 26, of Smithton, Mo., collided at Thirty-ninth Street and Harrison Boulevard there.

BOWLING

Ralph Hamlin's Service provided the marker for the rest of the bowling teams playing in the leagues at the Sedalia Bowling Lanes to shoot at, when in the 8:45 league the team turned in a 3227 score. It is the largest team score to be rolled for either the 1952-53 or the present 1953-54 season.

The last known large score rolled in league play by a team was last season when Andersons had a 3,165.

O. G. Nelson with Hamlin's had both the single game and game individual score of 236 and 654 while George Dugan Sr. was second in total score with a 618.

The team had the highest game with 990 scratch without the handicap of 134 pins or a total game of 1124.

Says Outlook 'Pretty Grim' For Hunters

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The outlook for Missouri's duck and goose hunters this fall was described by state Conservation Commission surveyors today as "pretty grim."

The drought again.

The start of the 55-day season is less than a month off and many of the most productive marshes, lakes and sloughs—even some creeks and rivers—are dry as a bone. It will take heavy and frequent rains to change that situation before the opening Oct. 23.

The commission's public shooting layout at Fountain Grove probably offers the most serious example of what drought can do. There's hardly enough water there for a beetle to take a respectable bath. Certainly there isn't enough to attract ducks. All the little islands and dikes that last year provided sites for hunters' blinds now are surrounded by cracked mud flats.

And the creek that once provided water to flood the area is dry, too.

At the Trimble shooting area halfway between Kansas City and St. Joseph, state commission officials figure the number of blinds will have to be cut about one-third. There just isn't enough water to fill all the pools.

There's very little water, also, at the Squaw Creek and Swan Lake refuges, thus dropping hunting prospects in the area around them, commission experts said.

The Mingo federal refuge in southeastern Missouri is low on water but apparently will have enough to provide some resting place for the migrating waterfowl. The state's duck creek hunting area alongside Mingo will not be ready for use for a year or so yet.

Harold V. Terrill, the commission staff member who surveyed the waterfowl prospects this week, said there might be this saving factor for some of Missouri's hunters.

Those who hunt the big rivers or the permanent lakes should find good shooting. The waterfowl will be concentrated on those bodies of water. Of course, there'll be more hunters concentrated there, too.

Terrill believes goose hunting around the federal refuges will be good this year, possibly better than usual.

The drought also will have another bad effect on waterfowl hunting. There isn't anywhere near the normal amount of weed seed or shattered grain left in the fields for the birds to use as forage.

That means the stopovers at any one spot will be short. The migrating birds will keep pushing south at greater than normal speed because there isn't enough easy feeding to hold them in Missouri.

Terrill sums it up as generally bad, with good hunting success probable in some areas for short periods of time.

This in a year when reports from the northern nesting areas indicated good hunting in the Mississippi Flyway, too.

Speaks First Words After Tire Explosion

MIAMI, Okla. (AP)—Roy Red Eagle, 26-year-old Quapaw Indian, is tickled pink today over his broken jaw and mangled hand received when a tire exploded in his face.

The accident, says his doctor, resulted in Red Eagle's speaking his first words since childhood. The doctor said the Indian spoke despite the broken jaw while under anesthesia. He said he plans research into the case.

Big 7 Bowl Tie Up Seen With Atlantic

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A football bowl tieup between the Big Seven Conference and the new Atlantic Coast Conference may be reached next week.

If the pact is concluded the champions of each league would meet annually on Jan. 1 in the Orange Bowl at Miami in a set-up similar to the Rose Bowl alliance between the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences.

Reliable sources said Big Seven conference faculty representatives are expected to sign the Orange Bowl agreement at a meeting here next Monday and Tuesday, but Big Seven officials would neither confirm nor deny reports of tieup.

Under present Big Seven rules, post-season competition is banned except for NCAA-sponsored events such as basketball, track and swimming. The NCAA has approved major football bowls but does not sponsor them.

Teams in the Big Seven are Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas State and Iowa State.

In the Atlantic group are Maryland, Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina, Wake Forest and Clemson.

The Atlantic Coast Conference doesn't have a meeting scheduled until December but it is understood a standing committee is empowered to accept the Orange Bowl tieup.

It was indicated that if the agreement is signed, only one Big Seven team could play in a bowl game each year and that, of course, would be the Orange Bowl.

State Votes 1954 Season On Pheasants

CLINTON, Mo. (AP)—Although Missouri bird hunters may have to cut down on their sport this season because of drought ravages among the quail population, they are going to get a treat next year.

The state Conservation Commission voted yesterday to open the statewide pheasant hunting season in 1954 for the first time in 11 years. It also will permit operation of private pheasant-hunting preserves.

The commission was to make its decision on the quail season today with prospects for a reduction both in the length of season and the amount of the bag.

Next year's pheasant season will run from Nov. 10 to Nov. 25 with a daily bag limit of one cock and a season limit of 15. Shooting will be permitted from sunrise to sunset.

Commercial hunting preserve operators will be allowed to open their farms to hunters from Nov. 10, 1954, to Feb. 28, 1955, provided the farms are at least 160 acres in size and not larger than 3,000 acres.

Hunters must not kill more than 70 per cent of the birds released on any such preserve and the season limit will be 10 birds.

Beaver trapping will be permitted in 76 counties of the state this year from Dec. 1-15. The counties affected are all those north of the Missouri river, all those adjacent to the river on the south bank and a few in southeastern and southwestern sections where the animals are reported prevalent.

The southeastern counties opened include Bollinger, Butler, until December but it is understood a standing committee is empowered to accept the Orange Bowl tieup.

It was indicated that if the agreement is signed, only one Big Seven team could play in a bowl game each year and that, of course, would be the Orange Bowl.

Miss Mary Meyer Speaks Sunday On Europe Stay

Miss Mary Helen Meyer of Kansas City, formerly of Sedalia, will speak Sunday at 7 p. m. in the auditorium of the Federated Congregational - Presbyterian Church, Sixth and Osage, on her year in Germany and her travels in other European countries during that time.

Miss Meyer, who for several years taught in Sedalia and for the past few years has been teaching in Kansas City, was employed by the Army under the Civil Service requirements to teach in the Landsberg American School, where she taught American dependent children living in that area. She flew over from Idlewild Airport, New York, to Rhein Mein Airport. She received her assignment at Frankfurt to teach in the Landsberg school.

Feeling it was an opportunity for her to see some of Europe as she worked, she traveled during the year in Vienna, Austria, various cities in Italy, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and France.

She lived in Germany and was able to travel in various parts of that country and has pictures to show of Germany and Italy. The pictures of Italy include Rome, Vatican City, Venice and Capri. The German pictures are Berlin (East Sector), Munich and many villages in Bavaria. She also has pictures of the cows that were brought down from the mountains for a cow festival in Oberstdorf.

Miss Meyer will give an illustrated talk on her travels in Germany, including East Berlin, Bavaria and Italy at the Sunday evening service of the Congregational - Presbyterian Church, Stover, where Dr. Roy F. Williams is pastor.

Miss Meyer was a teacher in the American Dependent Children's School in Frankfurt, Germany, last winter and had occasion to travel in other countries during her stay abroad.

On Sunday morning the Rev. Mr. Loughran will preach on the subject, "Christ Teaches a Lesson in Courtesy and Compassion."

The Mr. and Mrs. Club of the Church will hold its fall supper meeting Monday evening at the Richie Farm. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lamm, Jr., president, will preside. The Guild will hold its annual

Rev. David Bryan Heads Christian Church District

Twenty people from the First Christian Church attended the church's sixth district convention held in Carrollton this past Monday. Some of the people went up early Monday morning and stayed the entire day. However, several of them went for the banquet meeting and remained for the evening session of the convention.

The churches represented at this annual district convention are the Christian churches from six counties in this immediate area.

The Rev. David M. Bryan, local pastor, was elected the new president of the convention, while the Rev. Robert Bell, Slater, was elected vice-president. However, other members of the First Christian Church here in Sedalia took honors at the district also.

Miss Kathryn Noyes, the director of religious education for this church, was elected secretary-treasurer of the convention, and two of the local church's laymen were elected to top posts in the district men's work. Cecil Owen was elected district governor of the laymen's work, and Harvey Krimmer was elected lieutenant-governor.

Sixth of a Series-- Favorite Hymns Of Sedalia's Ministers

By The Rev. Roy Bowers, Pastor First Methodist Church

"The Church's One Foundation" is one of my favorite hymns. Written by Samuel John Stone in about 1866, it became a famous "Processional for Festivals," and was chosen for use at the professional at services held at Canterbury, Westminster, and St. Paul's Cathedrals for the Lambeth Conference of 1888, when representative high churchmen from all parts of the world met in England.

"The effect of this hymn was almost appalling. It is based on the Apostles' Creed, and especially on the article, 'I believe in the Holy Catholic Church; the communion of saints.' It is a strong hymn of hope and faith. The Rev. Mr. Stone was so stirred by Bishop Gray, of Capetown, South Africa, in his defense of the faith against Bishop Colenso's teachings, that he wrote this hymn. The third stanza in his writings, which expresses his strong feeling in the controversy, is omitted in our hymnals today. In this hymn we feel the strongly outspoken utterances of a deep and abiding faith.

THE CHURCH'S ONE FOUNDATION
"The Church's one foundation is Jesus Christ her Lord;
She is His new creation by water and the word;
From heaven He came and sought her to be His holy bride;
With His own blood He bought her, and for her life He died.
Ere from every nation, yet one o'er all the earth,
Her charter of salvation, one Lord, one faith, one birth;
One holy Name she blesses, partakes one holy food,
And to one hope she presses, with every grace endued.
Yet she on earth hath union with God the Three in One,
And mystic sweet communion with those whose rest is won;
O happy ones and holy! Lord, give us grace that we,
Like them, the meek and lowly, on high may dwell with Thee."

Rev. David Bryan Ministerial Alliance Names New Committees

The Ministerial Alliance of Sedalia has recently held its first meeting of the fall, which was a breakfast meeting at the Bothwell Hotel. The Rev. David M. Bryan, minister of the First Christian Church, is the new president of the alliance and presided over the meeting. One guest of the meeting was Lt. Ivan Hering of the Salvation Army.

The first meeting of the fall is always the organizational meeting of the alliance and Chairman Bryan announced the new committees. He announced that the Rev. T. W. Croxton of the First Baptist Church was appointed chairman of the radio and Buena Vista committee; the Rev. Roy Bowers of the First Methodist Church will serve this year as chairman of the alliance's special services committee; the Rev. S. L. Gilkason will serve as the chairman of the public relations committee; the Rev. J. C. Jackson is chairman of the alliance's social committee; the Rev. Lee Soxman is the new chairman of the alliance's leadership training school committee. All members of the alliance will serve on one of the committees.

23 POWs Refuse Return

Reds Make Public Names Of Prisoners Who Won't Come Home; Get Reason

TOKYO, Friday, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Communists yesterday made public the names of 23 U. S. prisoners they said refused to go home where "those who speak out for peace and freedom are rapidly being silenced."

The quotation was from a statement, purportedly signed by all 23, handed out by a Communist correspondent at Pannunioj.

The statement quoted them as saying they still loved America and hoped to return some day but for now felt they could best work for peace behind the Bamboo Curtain.

The Communists timed their publicity fanfare with the arrival in Korea's demilitarized zone of the 23 Americans and a Briton who lead off Red troops singing the "Internationale" anthem of worldwide communism.

Allied observers heard some say "see you in Peiping" on leaving their Red captors for the custody of Indian troops, who will guard them while Allied explanation teams seek to change their minds.

Shortly after arrival of the 24, along with 335 South Koreans also said to be resisting repatriation, Communist correspondent Wilfred Burchett handed over names of the Americans and the Briton to Allied newsmen.

Richness, Austrian-born correspondent for the Paris Communist newspaper L'Humanite, also turned over a statement which Allied observers promptly said sounded like something Burchett wrote himself.

Allied military censors refused to pass the list of names. But a little later the list was broadcast by Red China's Peiping radio and picked up in Tokyo, where there is no censorship on Communist broadcasts.

The names were given without home towns. Addresses for 22 of the 23 Americans were obtained from the official list of missing prisoners released earlier this month in Washington.

The statement attributed to the Americans took swipes at Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), leader of an investigation of Communist influence in government, and at Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander.

Unfortunately, under present day conditions in America, the statement read, "the voice of those who speak out for peace and freedom are rapidly being silenced while the voices which shout the loudest and get most publicity are those of McCarthy, the book burners and those who demand 'preventive wars.'"

"We do not intend to give the American government a chance of silencing our voices too."

At another point the statement noted:

"McCarthy Fascist-minded politicians will 'traitor' the 'traitors' who are those who are trying to push the American people into another war they don't want."

The statement also made pointed reference to a group of Americans, freed last spring during the sick and wounded exchange, and taken to Valley Forge Hospital in Pennsylvania instead of being sent like the rest to hospitals nearest their homes.

The statement said this group was "dragged off" by the military to a "mental hospital" and treated as "mental cases" for "opposing the Korean War and speaking for peace."

Clark recently issued a statement saying he could talk with the Americans reportedly balking at coming home he would remind them of the tradition of freedom for which they fought.

"It is not for Mark Clark to remind us of our tradition," the statement read.

Beef Champion Sells For $140 Per Hundred

ST. JOSEPH, Sept. 24 (AP)—The grand champion baby beef of the Interstate Baby Beef and Pig Club sold for $140 per hundred weight at the auction that concluded the show this afternoon.

The calf, a Herford, was purchased by the Dugdale Packing Co. It was produced by Stanley Stout of Cottonwood Falls, Kan.

The reserve champion calf of the show, an Angus raised by Dick Deshon of Agency, was purchased by Danner Mills for $80 per hundred.

The grand champion barrow brought $80 a hundredweight to open the auction of 4-H Club live stock. The barrow, a Chester White was owned by Robert Lynn Salmon of Pattonsburg, Mo., and was bought by Dexter Davis of Anchor Serum Co. The St. Joseph serum firm also purchased the grand champion ton litter at $24 a hundred. The litter was produced by Russell Rosenbohm of Graham Mo.

Says Russia's Plan Is For World Control

Polish Delegate Reports There Will Be No Present War

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—A Polish delegate to the United Nations who fled to the free world said today Russia's "master plan" calls for world conquest by 1970 or 1980—but no immediate war.

Testifying at a televised hearing before the House Un-American Activities Committee, Dr. Marek Stanislaw Korowicz, a Kurakow University law professor, declared:

"The Kremlin feels that under present circumstances, war is not the best way to achieve their aims."

Korowicz's cool, matter-of-fact description of recent life behind the Iron Curtain — a life he described as misery, slavery, a "real inferno" — was broadcast by the U. S. N. de laetation last week to seek have under the American flag, said only 6 to 7 per cent of his people are Reds — and not more than 2 per cent of Polish voters would support the Communist party in a free election.

But any workers' revolt, such as recently flared in East Germany, would be "immediately drowned in the blood of the Polish people," he said.

Russian troops are spread through Poland to suppress any uprising, he said, and all officers in the Polish army above the rank of lieutenant colonel are actually Russians.

The Polish economy is managed for the benefit of the Soviet military machine, he said, and the Polish delegation to the United Nations takes its orders from Moscow.

"The Polish delegation is nothing but an extension of the Russian delegation. And it is an absolute fiction that there is any independence in this delegation," he said.

Five-Time Killer Found Guilty Of Felony Murder

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Fred Eugene McManus, the 19-year-old Valley Stream, L. I., youth who confessed five killings, today was found guilty of first-degree felony murder.

But a State Supreme Court jury recommended life imprisonment, and it was probably that Justice H. Douglas Van Duser would honor the recommendation in passing sentence Saturday.

The young ex-Marine was poker-faced as the verdict was announced.

A moment later, however, he flashed a bit of the devil-may-care nonchance that he showed last spring when he and his teenage sweetheart were captured in Dubuque, Ia., after a crime spree through the East and Midwest.

He squeezed the shoulder of his father, brewery executive Mose McManus and then grinned broadly as he was led away to the Ontario county jail.

A felony murder is one that occurs during the commission of another crime—in this case, robbery. McManus has said he slew the five persons in order to get money and a car to take him and 16-year-old Diane Marie Wegeland west to a state with less stringent marriage laws than New York. They didn't get married. The killings netted $80 in cash.

Van Duser still can sentence McManus to death in the electric chair for the pistol-killing last March 27 of William Allan Braverman, 18, a Hobart College student from Rochester. However, in most cases, the jury recommendation is followed.

Diane, a ward of the Monroe County children's court, has been committed to a women's institution as a wayward minor.

Pettis 4-H'ers To State Contests

Seven Pettis County 4-H'ers will compete in the state 4-H contests Friday at Columbia.

Winning in the district contests at Clinton and at the State Fair the following were selected to represent this district: food preservation team, Bonnie Gorrell and Wanda Zeiger (Van Natta 4-H); and Lorene Klein (Walnut Grove 4-H); clothing team, Eleanor Van Dyke and Mary Schwartz (South Abell 4-H); and Christine Silby (Georgetown 4-H); dress review, Frances Norflett (Prairie Ridge 4-H).

Following the contests, the Missouri Chain Store Council is providing a banquet for the 4-H participants in dress review, grooming, demonstration and judging.

The group will return Friday night after the banquet.

The association estimates the revenue from the tourists will reach 125 million pounds. ($36 million dollars).

Police said they found 2,120 pounds of nickel, 2,540 pounds of cobalt and some molybdenum in the cars.

Deck's Store Badly Damaged By Fire

Nearly $20,000 Damage Caused by Blaze Of Undetermined Origin, Which Started In Workshop of Downtown Firm Thursday

Downtown shoppers had an unexpected bit of excitement at 10:15 a.m. Thursday when fire broke out in the Deck's Home Appliance Co. store building at 512 South Ohio. Damage was estimated at nearly $20,000 to the building and contents.

The fire started in the workshop at the rear of the store room of the building. It broke out and started so quickly that Billy Deck, 1611 East Ninth, son and partner in the business with his father, Jacob F. Deck, and Ernie Heller, 1320 East Sixth, barely had time to get out of the building.

Deck and Heller were behind the counter checking some book work when Heller suddenly looked up and saw fire shooting up at the rear of the store. Deck ran around the counter and grabbed a television set and started for the front, put the set down and returned to the counter to get charge books. He was forced out by the heat from burning excelsior from the packing boxes which had already caught fire.

Firemen from the headquarters company wasted no time in getting a line of hose laid from Fifth and Ohio and began pouring water into the rear of the building and when the East Sedalia company arrived another line was laid from Sixth and Ohio. Between the two lines of hose the firemen worked from a back door and rear windows, pouring water in on the flames.

Their quick action possibly saved the fire from spreading into the second story of the three-story building. The upper two floors are vacant.

Mr. Deck, who was on a business call, was contacted and hurried to the store. He said five new television sets, which arrived Wednesday, were in the workshop and all were destroyed along with several others which were stored there.

The heat from the fire was so intense that it melted plastic radio cases in the front window. One table stand radio case was bent in the middle from the heat; the knobs on several appliances also changed shape. The smoke and heat discolored electric refrigerators, blistered the finish on the wood cabinets of radio and television sets. Other articles were either destroyed by the heat or badly damaged. The front windows of the building were smoked and cracked from the heat.

Mr. Deck at first estimated his loss at $20,000, but hesitated later to say definitely until an inventory can be taken and a complete check made.

Fire Chief John G. Lueck estimated the damage to the building at $7,000 and to the contents at approximately $10,000.

During the fire a large crowd gathered at the entrance to the alley and stood across Ohio Avenue watching the firemen battle the flames.

The building is owned by Tracy DeLozier, Clinton, who carries insurance to cover his losses. Mr. Deck reported he also had insurance which will probably take care of his loss.

Opened Hearings On Tightening Up Of Some Laws

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Missouri State Senate's criminal law revision committee today opened here a series of hearings looking toward the tightening up of laws on wire tapping, labor racketeering and the carrying of concealed weapons.

Senator Albert M. Spradling, Jr., Cape Girardeau, the chairman, said the group will conclude its hearings on these subjects while in Kansas City.

At hearings in Jefferson City, beginning Oct. 23, the committee plans to delve into a revision of the Criminal Practices Act.

Spradling said the committee is favorable toward a recent New York law covering the field of bribery and extortion of labor union representatives.

"The New York law," he said, "is an unusual approach. It allows prosecution where under the laws of Missouri a prosecuting attorney would be almost helpless."

On the agenda at the Jefferson City hearings, he said, will be testimony looking toward revision of the amount of money a candidate can spend on his political campaigns.

"Since the old corrupt practices act was written we have had the event of the radio, television and large increases in the price of newspaper advertising," he said.

The chairman added the committee hoped to set new and higher limits on the amounts candidates can spend and tighten up the law on side organizations now used by some to raise and spend money.

H-Bomb May Be Trivial

Dreaded Weapon May Be So Flimsy That Any Nation Can Produce Them Fast

By Elton C. Fay
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The dread hydrogen bomb may turn out to be so cheap and simple that almost any nation can produce an arsenal of them in a few short years.

That word seeped out today as President Eisenhower met in a prolonged, 3-hour session with his National Security Council, the commanders and civilian chiefs of the armed forces, and a committee of advisers on defense of the North American continent.

No information was released after the secret session as to what took place. Vice President Nixon, one of the 26 participants, commented in reply to questions that meetings of the council are "always completely confidential."

The extraordinary nature of the session was attested by the fact that more than twice the usual number attended.

Of primary concern, obviously, was Russia's position in the atomic arms race, and America's ability to unleash retaliatory action if the Soviet Union should start war with hydrogen bombs.

But it was the amazing progress in development of H-bombs for the American arsenal that stirred alarm.

Nuclear scientists are on the track of methods for making and exploding hydrogen weapons so simplified and so relatively cheap that any nation with a moderate military budget may be able to manufacture them well within the next decade.

Among other things, the American bomb makers are working on a technique for "triggering" the mighty hydrogen bomb without using the unearthly heat of a standard fusion bomb to set off the atomic fusion process of hydrogen.

Until recently, the popular supposition was that unless a nation already possessed fission bombs there would be no way to detonate the hydrogen fusion bomb with the million or more degree heat supposedly required for creating the explosion.

Speculation has been that the United States may have between two and five years' lead over Russia in making usable hydrogen bombs. Conservative officials here guess at about three years, but point out that the Soviets may at any time stumble on a short-cut process that will put Russia even ahead of the United States.

An assessment of what is known or guessed at about Russian progress shows among other things that:

1. Foundation for an enormous scientific progress in Russia has been laid.

2. The educational pattern in physics has changed rapidly. Contrary to its policy in dealing with everything else in Russia, the Kremlin politicians are keeping hands off the physicists. Red scientists are virtually free from the indoctrination and political warping to which all other scientists are subjected in their daily work.

3. Analyses of Soviet-made weapons captured in the Korean War show far greater progress in design and manufacturing methods than American military men had been willing to admit.

Mayor Studer Named FHA District Chief

Sedalia Will Succeed Vivian Truman In Federal Position for West Missouri On Nov. 9; Was Early Booster for Ike

Mayor Herbert E. Studer, 35, an original "Ike for President" booster in Missouri, has been named to succeed J. Vivian Truman, brother of former President Harry S. Truman, as director of the Federal Housing Administration at Kansas City.

The announcement by commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday at Washington, D. C., head of the agency said Vivian Truman has resigned. Studer's appointment is effective Nov. 9.

An FHA official said Truman is entitled to a Civil Service lifetime pension of $2,128 a year since he is more than 62 and has been with the agency 18 years.

In addition, he said, Truman is entitled to a lump sum payment of $2,141 for 608 hours of annual leave accumulated as of Dec. 31, 1952.

Vivian Truman was appointed assistant director of the Kansas City regional office of FHA Oct. 15, 1935, while Harry Truman was a U. S. senator from Missouri. He was named director for western Missouri in 1946 while his brother was president.

Studer, as head of the Kansas City FHA office will be responsible for carrying out FHA programs in 38 Missouri western counties. He is a real estate broker.

The incoming director, a Navy veteran, has been Sedalia's mayor since April 1950, when he was the only Republican winner in the race for 10 posts in that traditionally Democratic stronghold.

Studer first entered actively into politics when he was elected city councilman of the Fourth Ward in Sedalia back in 1943, when he and his wife made a house-to-house campaign in the city election. He was the only Republican elected in that election.

No sooner had Studer taken office as a councilman than he began to feel the "bug" to run for mayor. In the spring of 1950 he went after GOP nomination and against the "Old Guard" gained attention which rewarded him with that honor. Again his wife took up campaigning from house-to-house between her own household duties and, with Herb, they gained prominence. In the biggest city election in Sedalia in many years, he was again the only Republican elected.

Early in 1951 Studer began circulating around the young Republicans in this section of the state on the "Ike for President" project and when he went to Kansas City in December 1951 he was one of the first to announce his intention of supporting the NATO supreme commander for president.

Today, Studer recalled the Kansas City meeting at which he said, "The attendance wasn't too large but those there were enthusiastic. There wasn't much to comment on the meeting at that time," Studer recalled. "When it was definite the Republicans could get 'Ike' to that it was 'Well, let's go' and that was it," Studer concluded.

Studer joined with Reed Granger of Stockton, Mo., in starting a state-wide pre-convention fight for delegates. At that time the "Old Guard" was with the late Sen. Taft, but Granger and Studer mustered support among the young Republicans, saw that they attended their caucus meetings and county conventions in sufficient numbers to gain control, resulting in Missouri support for Eisenhower.

During the 1950 campaign, Studer was district organizer for the 11th Congressional District for the Republican State Committee.

Miss Oetting, Gene Ferguson Wed In Texas

On Saturday afternoon, September 5, Miss Janet Oetting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jul Oetting, Concordia, and Mr. Gene Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harman Ferguson, Windsor, were united in marriage at Saint Paul's Lutheran Church in San Antonio, Texas. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Wiederaenders, minister at Saint Paul's.

The bride wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over bridal satin fashioned with a strapless bodice edged in pleated tulle and matching lace jacket styled with an illusion yoke, tiny lace edged collar and long lace sleeves. The lace duplicated in a wide horizontal band on the bouffant skirt of tulle which was worn over hoops and crinolines. Her elbow length veil was held in place by a tiara of tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white Bible adorned with a white orchid.

The attendants in the wedding were Mrs. Rolla J. Plattner, sister of the bride, Grand Pass, and Mr. Bill Klingenberg, Concordia. Joyce and Patricia Plattner, nieces of the bride, were ring bearer and flower girl respectively.

The traditional wedding music was used and Mr. Bill Grace, Concordia, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Mr. Norman Elliott, San Marcos, Tex., sang "Bist du bei Mir".

Following the wedding, a reception and supper was held for the newlyweds in the dining room of Charlie's Restaurant on the Austin Highway in San Antonio. The bride's mother decorated the three tier wedding cake which was served.

The couple is at home at 324 Brahan Boulevard, San Antonio.

Fall Rose Show Not So Large, But Beautiful

The Fall Rose Show, sponsored by the Sedalia Rose Society, although not as large as last year, was a very beautiful exhibit.

Rose growers, who usually have roses in abundance at this time of year, had only a small number in comparison because of the drought during the summer, but the roses displayed at the show held Friday night in the Little Theatre at Smith-Cotton were unusually large and well formed.

The range of colors was wide, from light reds to dark reds, all shades of pink, varieties of yellows, from cream to deep yellow, white roses, and many of the lovely two-tone shades. There were all types of roses, too, hybrid teas, climbers, and floribundas, as well as others.

The center table was one of arrangements which were very attractive. One had fruit and roses, the fruit at the base of the rose-filled vase being different. Another was of red roses and a vine in a glass bowl. Roses in shades of pink and yellow were combined with pink candles for a table centerpiece and a crescent-shaped vase was of Fashion roses. There were several madonna arrangements and roses in baskets and bowls.

Members of the Rose Society, and visitors at the show, compared roses and gained valuable information from each other on the growing of roses and some were listing the different varieties of roses there that they would like to have in their own garden.

Miss Lavona Jane Hughes Is Bride Of Donald Leon Snelling Sept. 6

Miss Lavona Jane Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Hughes, Stover, and Mr. Donald L. Snelling, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Snelling, also of Stover, were married at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 6, at the First Baptist Church, Stover.

The pastor, Dr. Roy F. Williams, performed the double ring ceremony before a background of ferns, pink gladioli and potted esculenta flanked on either side by candelabra ornamented with white satin bows and holding lighted candles.

Miss Mildred Wilson, Kansas City, played a program of piano music and accompanied Mr. Loren Hughes, brother of the bride, who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "Because" preceding the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a very full floor length gown of white slipper satin that fell into a semi-train. The bodice was fashioned with a sheer yoke and a portrait neckline edged with a scalloped collar of satin. There were satin covered buttons at the back and on the long sleeves, which were pointed over the hands. Her fingertip length veil of nylon tulle fell from a coronet set with rhinestones and seed pearls. She wore a double strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a white Bible adorned with red roses and a shower of white satin ribbons.

Miss Howard Jones, Kansas City, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a sky blue floor length dress of net and lace over tulle with lace bolero and matching net headpiece. Mrs. Milton Taylor of Versailles, another sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Her floor-length costume was fashioned in pink satin and lace, and she wore a half hat trimmed with pink net. Both attendants carried colonial bouquets of red roses.

Little Miss Patsy Hughes, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Mr. Wayne Snelling was best man for his brother and Mr. Howard Jones, Kansas City, was groomsmen. Ushers were Dr. Milton Taylor, Versailles, and Mr. Duane Holsten.

The bride's mother wore a suit of navy and white checked wool with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom was attired in a navy nylon sheer crepe with pink accessories.

Her corsage was also of pink roses. Following the ceremony a reception was given in the church dining room for about 140 guests.

Miss Hughes, now Mrs. Snelling, is employed at Hallmark Cards, Inc., Kansas City. Mr. Snelling is employed by the Socony Vacuum Oil Company, Kansas City.

For traveling the bride chose a suit of green and white checked wool with accessories of black. Her corsage was of red roses. The couple will take a short trip through the Ozarks after which they will be at home at Linden Trailer Park, North Kansas City.

Out-of-town guests, besides relatives from Versailles, were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. John Bockelman, Misses Evelyn Hughes, Mildred and Grace Wil-

Smith-Cotton Tigers Win Opener In CMC From Kemper 19-6

First Touchdowns Scored by Case, Burton and Bennett; Tigers Get Breaks

The Smith-Cotton Tigers Friday night in a drizzling rain didn't have too much trouble in winning their first game of the 1953 season when they defeated the Kemper Military Academy Yellowjackets by a 19-6 score. The Tigers just out maneuvered the Yellowjackets to win.

Kemper won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. Richard "Buck" Bennett kicked off and after three plays by Kemper Sedalia took the ball on the Kemper 40 yard line. Eight plays later Case passed to Burton and the ball went out of bounds and the Yellowjackets took over.

Recovers a Fumble
On the first play, Paul Percifield fumbled and Darel Ford recovered on the 15 yard line. It took a first down and four plays later Bobby Case went two inches through the center of the line for the first score. Bennett failed to make good the kick, but the Tigers had the lead.

Opening the second Quarter the Tigers got their second break. Clark Potter attempted a punt and it was blocked when the Tiger line smashed through and smothered Potter, the ball rolling out and Benny Walter recovering for the Tigers on the two yard line.

Elroy Burton took charge on the next play and went scooting through the line for two yards and the score. Bennett converted the extra point to give the Tigers a 13-0 lead.

Long Run By Case
The second half opened with John Adams kicking off to Case on the Tiger six yard stripe and he went zig-zagging up the field to the 42 yard line on the return. Two plays netted six yards on runs by Case and Burton, but a five yard penalty took it back. Bennett tossed a pass to Case and he went down to the Kemper 45 for a first down. Case made a beautiful break through and went 31 yards to put the ball down on the 14 yard line. Case carried it six, Rudd Van Dyne added two more and Bennett went around right end for six yards and the tally. He failed on the kick for the extra point.

It was in the fourth quarter when Bobby Morgan fumbled and Jesse Maxwell recovered on Kemper's 43 yard line the Yellowjackets took the new life. The drive started and four quick first downs followed putting the ball to the six yard line. Rod Mitchell carried it two yards placing it on the four. Dave Williams, Kemper's fullback, crashed the line for the four yards and the first and only touchdown for the Academy boys. John Adams on a fake place kick tried to carry the ball and found him smothered by a whole team of Tigers, far short of the goal line and extra point.

The Statistics of Game
Ground gaining by the two teams was about a stand off with Kemper having a four yard advantage of 130 to 135 by rushing while on the other hand Kemper had a 51 yard lossage by rushing against the Tigers six. In the pitching department Kemper's backfield tossed four passes one complete for 14 yards, one incomplete and two were intercepted while the Tigers had two pitches one for one yard the other for 10 yards and two incomplete.

The Tigers had two fumbles recovered by the Yellowjackets while the Yellowjackets lost the ball once to the Tigers on a fumble.

Smith-Cotton Kickers did alright in that department kicking off four times for 193 yards and punted once for 20 yards while the Kemper kickers kicked off twice for 99 yards and punted twice for 71 yards and had two punts blocked and recovered by the Tigers. On the returns the Tigers made 66 yards while Kemper returned 40 yards.

The Tigers were penalized five times for a total of 35 yards and Kemper twice for a total of 10 yards.

Tigers Are Clicking
The Smith - Cotton team was clicking along just like it has been doing in the practice sessions nobody trying to "hog the ball" or "showing off" and displayed as a whole some excellent team work. Lanny Crouch and Phillip Wulff tackled, came through and showed their first game in the game than in practice.

Bobby Case and "Buck" Bennett did a creditable job in the backfield in handling the ball.

What pleased the coaches on the sidelines most of all was some neat blocking of his backfield men, Van Dyne, Burton. The whole line worked far better in their first game than some Tiger teams have in openers in the past.

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow in his remarks about the team had high praise but compliments for the boys, but indicated there are some "mighty rough edges" to be worked off between now and next Friday night when they are scheduled to meet the Joplin High School on the new gridiron at the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Stadium.

A JOB WELL DONE—by two Sedalia men, shown above, Charles Van Dyne, left, and Ralph Hall, right, who have put in more time than any two individuals on seeing the Jennie Jaynes Lewis Memorial Stadium, gridiron and track project completed for 1953 season. Van Dyne is a trustee for the foundation along with E. M. Stafford Jr., president, and Tom Cloney, who likewise have been active in the project. Hall had the contract for the erection of the stadium and constructed the 11 large piers which through a firm in Kansas City. He also had the contract for the track and other necessities around the area, all of which took plenty of supervision. Van Dyne and Hall worked together through the past several months pushing the work at the area so Smith-Cotton could have a new gridiron ready for play and a stadium for Sedalians to use to watch their games. ## Narrow Gauge Railroads Pass From Scene—Old Sedalia-Warsaw R. R. Had 46 Mile Line

By W. D. Agee

Like the old covered bridges of earlier days, narrow gauge railroads are vanishing one by one and there are very few operating in the United States. There are still living in Pettis and Benton Counties numerous elderly persons who remember distinctly the old narrow gauge line, Sedalia, Warsaw and Southwestern, from Sedalia to Warsaw. It had 46 miles of track.

Operating the narrow ribboned railway line began 72 years ago, in 1881, and traversed Flat Creek Township, thence to Cole Camp, Lincoln and its terminus at Warsaw.

The road was organized in Sedalia in 1879 with its first officers being: William Gentry, president; Gen. George R. Smith, vice-president; James H. Lay, secretary, and Cyrus Newkirk, treasurer.

Financing it was through money raised through subscription of the people as a new constitution of the state forbade counties issuing bonds beyond a certain limit.

It's equipment in transportation was a combination freight and passenger train and its chief revenue was from hauling cattle, hogs, wood and merchandise while carrying mail, baggage and limited number of passengers.

One trip a day, was made each way by the train, leaving Sedalia shortly after 7 a. m. returning when there was no unnecessary delay, to reach the Missouri Pacific station here in the mid-afternoon.

It had a small station at Fifth and the railway tracks where, after leaving the downtown station, it was made to take on passengers.

In the early 1900's this was a boon to reporters who in those days were self styled "leg artists", as they were required to make their rounds mostly aloft. They "covered", in their round off railway stations, the old MKT hospital, Broadway and Hancock, Missouri Pacific old shops and business houses in East Sedalia, as well as ones downtown.

To "hitch" a ride as the train left near Ohio and the Missouri Pacific tracks the reporters would hop on the rear of the train, ride to its stops at Fifth and the Sedalia, Warsaw and Southwestern depot, then on their way to the MKT hospital to check arrivals and injuries to patients who might be brought in to that place for treatment.

Members of the train crew were accommodating and as tickets collection was not started until the train was well on its way from Sedalia, those free or "pilfered" rides were most welcome.

In the service accorded through the section it served, as there was but a train each way a day, there were no head-on or rear end collisions, but weather conditions sometimes interfered with normal operation with derailments and other break-downs. The standard gauge line of the Missouri Pacific had its wrecker and operating crew, but could not reach the scene of a toppled over locomotive, or cars over the narrowed

With a Sedalian At the Wheel—

Bus That Hauls Pianos Instead Of People Is Familiar RFD Sight

By Peter Potter

Some day, if you're driving out in the country, you may pass by a bright yellow school bus with pianos, instead of children, for passengers.

If you do, then the driver will be John W. Gottschamer, who, with his wife, owns the Jefferson Piano Co., 205 East Second.

Mr. Gottschamer bought the bus in 1946, when he was still working in Des Moines, Ia., as a salesman. When he opened his business here in October, 1949, he brought the bus along with him and has covered many rural miles with it since.

The idea behind it is a smart one, and it has paid off in dollars and cents. Mr. Gottschamer explains it this way: People living in rural areas often must set aside a whole day in order to come to town to shop for a piano. As a result, they put it off as long as they can, and the number of customers in the store is not all it could be.

With his bus, Mr. Gottschamer is able to bring his store to the rural homes, right to the front doors. He can carry four brand new pianos in his bus. All the passenger seats have been removed, plank bases have been laid along the sides and the pianos can be covered with stuffed blankets and lashed in place. In this way they can be transported without the slightest injury either to their finish or their tone.

Thus a rural family can take only an hour's time to do what ordinarily would consume a whole day, and the selection of pianos remains on a high level.

Although the Gottschamers came to Sedalia in October, 1949, they had no store until the following March. In the interim, they warehoused their pianos. In March, they opened one small room at the East Second street address and moved their pianos there. Now they have several rooms, including a storage room in the rear, two rooms in front for display and another two rooms for a work area.

In addition, they also own a small one-room structure, which is used to be a filling station office on the southwest corner of Second and Massachusetts. They use it for spraying on new finish.

Sometimes Mr. Gottschamer makes trade-in sales, bringing the old pianos back with him in the bus. Some will be stripped of all usable parts, the parts stored away in the back room and the remains junked. Others will be refinished and repaired.

In order for a piano to be re-worked, it must first be in sound condition, Gottschamer says. People, who buy second-hand pianos and rely on their own inspection of the instruments are asking for trouble, he warns. They should get professional advice. Bargain buyers, he concludes, are seldom bargains in the long run.

Gottschamer first checks the instrument traded in to see that the wood has not dried and split, that the metal parts are not cracked or rusted and that the action of the keys, pedals, and hammers can be returned to good condition. All the large removable panels on the outside are taken off. The varnish is removed either by giving the wood a remover bath, a scraping and a gasoline rinse or by using glass insulator blocks as sandpaper. The latter method is excellent when there are no raised decorations on the wood.

Using regular sandpaper on varnish is slow work and wastes the paper, Gottschamer says, because the varnish heats up and forms a slick surface on the paper. The glass blocks, on the other hand, do an amazingly quick job without slicking over or scratching the wood. Neither will they irritate the hands.

Once the old finish is gone, the inside of the piano is masked with

Fox Midwest President Lands Film, 'The Robe'

Joe Ruddick, manager of the Fox Theatre, has received the following telegram from E. C. Rhoden of Kansas City, president of the Fox Midwest Theatres:

"Am happy to tell you that 'The Robe', as filmed in CinemaScope in spectacular and thrilling, exceeding my highest hopes. Have just read over 500 patrons comment cards and they tell the real story. They praise the picture and the new dimensional technique of CinemaScope. Box office at Roxy over $17,000 at 5 o'clock, breaking all existing records. We are rushing new equipment to you for earliest possible showing in your city."

A meeting of the Spectrum Staff was held Thursday after school. The following were appointed as staff members: Paul Ressel, editor; James Eschbacher and Richard Stohr, co-editors; Jack Ryan and Paul Ressel, photographers; Mary Jo Aldridge, Beverly Coughlin and Barbara Lamy, writers; Betty Ann Kline, Alphonse Miles, Francis Moser, and John Seifner, business managers; Emily Dick and Lorraine Johnson, circulation managers; Lorretta Harper, Lorene Kline and Josephine White, typists; Cappy Bopp, Genie Fischer, Beverly Hoff, paper to protect the parts that should not be varnished. A filler is applied and the surface is sanded smooth. Then anywhere from five to seven coats of finish are applied by spray gun in the small filling station building across the street.

There is a well-known method of smoothing old finish, but Gottschamer prefers removing the old finish entirely and starting from scratch. He says smoothing the old finish doesn't usually last more than from six months to a year.

Once the instrument is refinished, it is tuned by Carson Meredith. It is then ready for sale.

The refinishing business remains secondary, however, to the sale of new pianos. Gottschamer prefers to tour the area in his bus, bringing his instruments within the reach of people who might not otherwise be able to enjoy owning their own piano.

Belgium Counts Centenarians
BRUSSELS, (AP) — Some 45 Belgians 37 of whom were women, have reached the age of 100 years, according to private statistics published here. Belgium has about eight and a half million inhabitants. In 1900, the country only reported eight 100 or more years old Belgians.

Official figures for 1900 were eight, for 1910, 16; for 1920, 18; for 1930, 23 and for 1947, 17. The lower 1947 results are attributed to the hardship of the war years which particularly affected older people.

Clark Retracts Offer

Will Not Give $50,000 To Red Pilot Who Delivers Jets To UN Hands

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The price of Russia's renowned jet fighter, the MIG 15, fell from $50,000 to zero on the American market today.

Gen. Mark Clark's Far East Command announced withdrawal of its offer to pay $50,000 to a Red pilot who delivers a Russian-built jet into the hands of United Nations forces in Korea.

At the same time the United States offered to return to its "rightful owner" the MIG 15 flown to an American airbase in South Korea last week by a young North Korean pilot.

Some officials here said the enemy aircraft was an old type from which American aviation experts could learn very little. It is known that the Communists have developed an advanced model jet known as the MIG 17.

The reward for the delivery of MIGs has been withdrawn "during this period of armistice discussions." This seemed to indicate it would be reinstated if hostilities were resumed, although there was no official statement to this effect.

Pentagon sources suggested the armistice also entered into the offer to return the MIG surrendered in South Korea.

The whole idea of promising a reward for delivery of Red jets to the U. N. side was described as being one thing in wartime and something else in a period of suspended hostilities.

Reporters were unable to learn where the surrendered MIG is at this moment. Last Tuesday the U. S. Air Force said it had been dismantled and loaded on a C-124 Globemaster for shipment to the Air Materials Command at the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, Ohio.

The Defense Department said definitely today, however, that the plane has not been brought to this country. Reports elsewhere were that it has reached the American base in Okinawa and may still be there.

There was speculation here that the Far East Command, in offering to return the plane to its "rightful owner," might be trying to establish Russian ownership for its propaganda effects.

Clark's statement, released simultaneously here and in Tokyo, said, "when the rightful ownership of the MIG that recently landed at Kimpo has been established we will offer to turn it over to that owner."

A spokesman for the Far East Command said "no comments when asked if the statement about the MIG that recently landed at Kimpo has been established we will offer to turn it over to that owner."

Bank Robber Gets $51,071 Today At Marmaduke, Ark.

MARMADUKE, Ark. (AP)—A robber got away with around $50,000 from a bank here today, forcing the early-arriving manager to open a vault and then leaving him prisoner in it.

C. W. Taylor, the manager, said the robber met him at the door of the Security Bank and Trust Company and made him open the bank and then the vault at pistol point.

At the bandit's direction, Taylor placed cash from the vault in a sack with which the hold up man had concealed the pistol.

The intruder left Taylor in the vault, but the manager attracted attention of persons in an adjoining building by pounding on the wall. He was able to tell them the combination for opening the vault and he was released after about 20 minutes.

Taylor saw only one man, and there was nothing to indicate whether the robber had accomplices.

Taylor said that as he got to the door of the bank shortly before 8 a. m. the man stepped up and asked him "what time do you open up?"

Taylor started to reply and the man added "this is a hold-up and I don't want any funny business." Taylor was confronted with an automatic pistol partly concealed by the sack.

Marmaduke, a town of only 643 inhabitants, is 12 miles north of Paragould in Greene County.

Plane Crash Lands In South Korea, 4 Poles Unhurt

SEOUL (AP)—The Army confirmed today a Communist report that a small American plane carrying four Polish truce observers crashed landed in South Korea. It said none was injured.

An 8th Army spokesman said the light, single-engine L20, developed engine trouble. It was brought in for "a perfect" emergency landing Saturday by its pilot, Lt. L. C. Caldwell. (Home town unavailable).

The spokesman said the only damage was a bent propeller. He said the four Poles were examined by an Army doctor who reported they suffered no injuries.

Peiping radio earlier said the four suffered "severe concussion." It charged the accident was due to the "irresponsible attitude" by the Americans.
